

TO INVESTIGATE LAWRENCE TRAGEDY

Sweeping Inquiry Into Drowning of 11 Boys—Judge Mahoney Orders Inquest

LAWRENCE, July 1.—The search for possible additional victims of yesterday's accident when eleven boys were drowned in the Merrimack river was made today by a diver who explored the river bottom, and by boatmen who dragged the stream. It was generally believed that no more bodies would be found as all the boys reported missing last night had been accounted for this morning; but a thorough search of the river was made to determine beyond question the extent of the calamity. Before the search was concluded the investigation of the cause of the accident was well-under way. The city

FUNERAL OF REV. FR. BRADLEY

Solemn Service at St. Michael's Marked by Great Sorrow for Popular Young Priest

There was a very large congregation at the funeral services of the late Rev. James J. Bradley, which took place this morning at St. Michael's church in Sixth street. The young clergyman who was recently ordained to the priesthood was well known throughout the city, and was held in high esteem by all who had the pleasure of knowing him, and his many friends and acquaintances paid him a last tribute of respect by attending the solemn high mass of requiem which was celebrated for the repose of his soul. Present also were many clergymen from out-of-town, including a very large delegation from St. John's

55,000 VETS AT GETTYSBURG

Survivors of the Civil War Continue to Pour Into City Where Battle Took Place

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 1.—Despite the strenuous efforts of the regular army to do impossible things, thousands of veterans spent the night on Gettysburg field with nothing between them and the stars but their clothes and their courage and nothing between them and the hard earth but a little more of the same thing. It was not the fault of the regulars and it was not the fault of the veterans. The railroads poured the thousands into Gettysburg the best they could but train after train that was looked for early came crawling in near midnight and until long after dark. Major Normoyle of the quartermasters' department, U. S. A., and the little force of army officers cooperating with him toiled all night, sparing no effort to meet the situation. Major Normoyle declared today that probably 55,000 vets would be on the field by night, five thousand more than had been looked for in the wildest dreams of the estimators. Although half of that number would fill the camp comfortably, Major Normoyle said he would see that everyone was taken care of. Although Buford and Wheeler had a skirmish near Gettysburg 50 years ago yesterday it was on July 1 the battle began that forced the Union troops out of Gettysburg back toward Cemetery Ridge. Colonel Schoonmaker, chairman of the Pennsylvania Gettysburg commission, was the presiding officer for today's meeting in the big tent and Secretary of War Garrison, Governor Tenner of Pennsylvania, Commander-in-Chief Alfred Hays of the G. A. R., and Commander-in-Chief Bennett H. Young of the United Confederate Veterans were listed as the principal speakers. Otto Stamm of Almond, N. Y., a member of the 27th Massachusetts Infantry died during the night of apoplexy. The army surgeons have been surprised at the stability shown by the veterans and by the fact that no more of them have succumbed to the heat. "There have been no real prostrations," said Major Collins, of the army medical staff. "Many of the veterans have arrived exhausted or come here sick and toppled over after they got here. When you think that only a few score men in nearly 50,000, all of them near the 70 mark, have been taken to the hospitals and that only four have died you will see that it is a remarkable record." The army doctors and Dr. Samuel Dickson of the Pennsylvania state health department today continued their effort for suppression of the sale of liquor in the town of Gettysburg. The Pennsylvania state police may step in and see that everything possible is done to relieve the situation. The officials of the two railroads running into Gettysburg said that the movement of trains on the battlefield was proceeding today with the regularity of clockwork and that less than a dozen trains are yet to arrive. When there are in all of the veterans will have arrived. Exaggerated reports are being circulated regarding the great number of heat prostrations in the ranks of the veterans. As a matter of fact comparatively few are ill, according to the army medical officers considering the great number of men ranging in age from 70 to 85, who are quartered here. Less than 300 are in the hospital camp, most of them suffering from intestinal complaints due to incautious eating.

GOMPERS CONFIRMS BRIBERY STORY

Labor Leader Upholds Mulhall's Report of Attempted Bribery—Tells of Experiences at Sing Sing

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Disclosures that promise to follow the reopening of the senate lobby committee investigation this morning are expected to be among the important developments of recent years in a congressional inquiry. Since publication of Martin M. Mulhall's story of how he had operated to influence legislation and elections in behalf of the National Association of Manufacturers, scores of labor leaders, present and former congressmen and others have come forward requesting that they be heard by the investigators. Louis J. Siebold of New York also has accepted service. He has been called as a newspaperman connected with the publication of the Mulhall statement to give the committee what information he can as to its preparation and as to the letters and telegrams Mulhall has agreed to produce. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor who figured prominently in Mulhall's story, the object of a long continued attack by those who attempted to bribe him and force him to give up his fight in behalf of labor legislation, has made public a detailed report of the attempted bribery. It confirms the story told by Mulhall.

The Gompers statement is a report, then resigning leaving the Federation of Labor crippled by his retirement and the exposure of other leaders. "My object in coming to you is to say I want to save you," Gompers is quoted as saying. "I want to save you and while I do not want to express in specific financial terms what the National Association of Manufacturers is willing to do yet I can guarantee that you would be financially safe for the balance of your life." President Gompers and other officials of the Federation of Labor will probably testify before the senate committee as the alleged activities of the lobbyists bore directly upon national legislation. John Kirby, Jr., and D. M. Parry, who are expected to sail today from San Francisco for Australia, wired Chairman Overman asking to be excused from testifying before the senate committee now, but promising to appear on their return in several months. To change their plans now, they telegraphed, would cost them about $2000 each. Chairman Overman today wired the two men to hold themselves in readiness to appear.

FOR MINOR LICENSES

Receipts This Year the Largest on Record

For the financial year ending June 1, there has been turned into the city treasury for minor licenses, the sum of $6750.50, and this is the greatest amount ever turned in for minor licenses. The amounts turned in since, and including 1907, are as follows: 1901, $3655; 1905, $3226; 1909, $4597.33; 1910, $5555.35; 1911, $6599.50; 1912, $8256.40; 1913, $6752.50. Michael F. O'Brien, of the messenger's department, assisted Clerk Mulberry of the license board in making out the minor and liquor licenses. Just for that somebody complained to the civil service authorities, but Commissioner Cummings had already obtained the commissioner's permission to engage Mr. O'Brien, temporarily. When Mr. O'Brien has finished he will return to the messenger's office.

CONG. ROGERS PRESENTS BILL

Providing for Registration of Legislative Agents and a Sworn Statement of Expenditures

Congressman Rogers introduced today a bill entitled "A bill to require the registration of counsel and other agents who for compensation influence or seek to influence legislation pending before congress." Speaking of this bill, Mr. Rogers said today: "Ever since my election last fall I have had it in mind to attempt at least two changes in the Federal regime suggested by precedents already fully established in Massachusetts. The first involves the daily or semi-weekly printing in bulletin form of information relating to all hearings held by committees of either branch of congress. Continued to last page

Desk Room in The Sun Building

The idea of renting desk room in the new Sun building with telephone and stenographer is really an innovation for Lowell. By this arrangement the occupant has all the advantages of having an office in Lowell's most modern and only fireproof office building, at a very low rental. This plan ought to appeal to a great many real estate and insurance men, travelling salesmen and others who require a down town branch office. There are a few more spaces to let. If interested talk with the building manager, room 201.

Crusade Against the Gypsy Moth

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The department of agriculture today launched a crusade against the gypsy and brown-tail moths. In the states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island the moths have worked havoc to vegetation, especially to vines and trees. To prevent a spread of this pest the department prohibits the shipping of plants, shrubs, trees or the products of trees from infested territory.

WADING POOL AND A BAND STAND

Municipal Council Votes $2000 for That Purpose—Order for Public Baths Defeated

Municipal baths, wading pools and bandstands, removal of dry closets from the public schools, the proper care of trees, and many other subjects were called to the attention of and discussed by the municipal council at a meeting held this forenoon. The only money voted by the council, however, was $2000 for wading pool and bandstand on the So. common, Ald. Barrett's $15,000 order for a swimming pool and shower baths in the Palmer street fire house was killed and no action was taken on the estimate for swimming pools alone as presented by Commissioner Cummings. An order to borrow $2200 for the removal of dry closets from the high school went over till Saturday. Park commission members appeared before the council and made known their wants. The meeting was called at about 11:30 o'clock and adjourned at 1:55 to tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The petition of John Conroy et al, that a portion of Barrett street be macadamized and edgestones laid, was referred to the commissioner of streets and highways. The petition of Otto M. Phil et al, for a gas light apertures 35 A street was read and referred to Commissioner Donnelly. The petition of William H. Waterman, by his attorney John J. Harvey, for damage to property in Anne street, was read and referred to the commissioner of public safety and the city solicitor. The petitioner represents that in the month of January, 1913, his property, numbered 27 Anne street, was damaged in consequence of the falling of the large maple tree which stood in the street in front of the premises. The New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. filed 11 agreements having to do with the erection and maintenance of poles. In consideration of the premises the company agrees to "identify and save harmless" the city from all claims and damages. The petition of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for permission to erect and maintain two poles on Crawford street was read and assigned for hearing July 15 at 11 a. m., as was the following petition:

Lowell Electric Light Corp., for permission to relocate one pole at the corner of Wannalancit street and West Hovers street. Bay State Street railway for permission to erect and maintain four poles on the westerly side of Gorham street, from Auburn street to opposite Keene street and on the southerly side of South street, near Gorham street, one pole. Bay State Street railway and Lowell Electric Light Corp., for permission to erect and maintain 15 joint poles on east side of Gorham street, between Elm street and Davis square. Lowell Electric Light Corp., for permission to erect one pole, on Kirk street, opposite Paige street. N. E. T. & T. Co., for four poles on Powell street, between Liberty and 23 Powell streets, and five poles on Elm street, between 60 and 110. Bay State Co. Scored. A hearing was declared open on the petition of the Bay State Street Railway Co., for permission to erect poles on Bridge street, from the northerly end of Merrimack river bridge to Sixth street. The company was represented by A. G. Spitzer, superintendent of lines and loading. Commissioner Cummings wanted to know why they can't have a joint line in Plain street. Mr. Cummings called the local inspector of wires, Mr. Mahany, and the latter said that the Bay State street railway had refused to share the responsibility in Lincoln street with other electric companies as is being done in Bridge street. "This trouble with our fellows is that we can't get any information out of you," said Mr. Cummings, addressing Mr. Spitzer. The latter replied that he couldn't carry everything in his head. "We have to," said Mr. Cummings, "and I want to say that that man of yours in Boston refuses to give us any information." The matter was referred to Commissioners Cummings and Donnelly. After Bulgaria has answered all the conciliatory steps of Greece by repeated breaches of treaty and by crossing the provisional boundary fixed a short time ago, the minister is quoted as saying, "The Greek government feels forced to give the Macedonian division of its army the order to assume its offensive."
"War will in this way commence without a formal declaration and the Greek government will submit a statement in this sense to the Bulgarian government at Sofia today."
"Greece declines to accept the responsibility for this war, which unquestionably will have grave consequences."

on the bathhouse property in the spring.
The accident, according to Battershill, was not due to any defect in construction but was caused by too many boys crowding to the runway which broke beneath their weight.

Flags at Halfmast
In response to the request of Mayor Michael Sean on flags were displayed at halfmast on all the city buildings and from most of the business houses and private residences today. During the night the mayor visited each of the stricken families.
Funerals of most of the victims will be held tomorrow. There will be at least one double funeral when services for Secundus Ellebro, 15 years old, and the eldest of the victims and Flower Pinter, aged 11, will be held at the First Baptist church. Both boys were members of the Victoria club, one of the church organizations.

Vote to Pay for Funerals
At a special meeting of the city government this morning it was voted to pay $100 toward the funeral expenses of each of the victims and a committee comprising Mayor Sean, Alderman Hannagan and Alderman Lynch was appointed to investigate the cause of the accident and report back to the city government at the earliest opportunity. Alderman Bradbury, head of the department in charge of the bath houses, told the members of the council that the same conclusion was used as had been the custom for years and that the work this year was in charge of the foreman who had supervised it for the past four years. He claimed that the boys made a rush on the arrival of the keeper and that when the runway sagged 15 inches it threw them into a panic, many being swept off as the bigger boys struggled to get off the walk, which finally gave way under the strain.

Inquest Ordered
Judge Mahoney of the Lawrence district court today ordered an inquest on a date to be set later.

50 BOYS PRECIPITATED INTO MERRIMACK RIVER WHEN GANGWAY COLLAPSED

LAWRENCE, July 1.—Eleven bodies of small boys, ranging in age from 5 to 15 years, were taken from the Merrimack river yesterday, victims of the collapse of a 75-foot gangway leading from the shore to one of the municipal bathhouses.

The total number of deaths has yet to be ascertained, as fully 50 boys were precipitated into the deep water when the gangway gave way as they leaped up and down in joy upon the arrival of the keeper.

At midnight the police were still dragging the river, and divers summoned from Boston were searching its bed, while an enormous crowd stood on the banks and frenzied parents prayed aloud or rushed distractedly about, hoping to find their missing children in the throng.

Seathing criticisms of city officials who permitted such a condition were made freely, and action has already been taken by parents of two of the dead boys, who engaged a photographer and civil engineer to make measurements preliminary to a thorough investigation.

Bodies Recovered
The victims whose bodies had been recovered up to midnight were as follows:

William Bolster, 10, son of Mrs. Mary Bolster of 305 Hampshire street.
Roland Jones, 9, son of Mrs. Margaret Jones of 63 Berkeley street.
Joseph Hennessey, 15, high school pupil, son of Mrs. Patrick Hennessey of 55 Bowdoin street.

Alfred Gaudette, 11, of 55 St. Joseph avenue, Fitchburg.
Heat Attracted Many
The catastrophe took place just before 2 o'clock, as Keeper William Blythe was approaching to unlock the door for the afternoon. There are three city bath houses, two on the north side and one on the south side of the river. Recently Alderman Alfred Bradbury, director of the department of public property, announced that he had chosen as keepers three aged and infirm men, and the bath houses were thrown open.
The heat of yesterday attracted many boys to the river, and it was estimated that as many as 50 had congregated on the gangway of this bathhouse. This gangway was 75 feet long, extending over the river about 60 feet. It was five feet wide, constructed of 4x4 and 4x6 with a board flooring and a frail wooden fence.
Most of Them Barefooted
A number of the boys hoped to see the ball game at Riverside park after their swim, and each wished to be in the water as soon as possible. Boys, like, they were anxious to "duck-up" without any delay, and a large number carried their shoes and stockings, as well as coats in their hands.
As Keeper Blythe picked his slow and hesitating way towards the bath house he was greeted by a chorus of shrill yells, and the boys began to jump up and down on the gangway. As the stamping and shouts for the keeper to hasten increased the timbers groaned, cracked and the gangway sagged in the middle, dropping all the boys into the river.
Bathhouse Fans Asks
According to eye witnesses, every boy disappeared beneath the surface of the water, but in a short time heads began to bob up and hysterical shrieks for help filled the air. Police officers and fans at the Lawrence-Lowell ball game in Riverside park ran to the spot, hurried to the spot, as did many others, and the work of rescue began.
Some of the little fellows were able to swim, and at once struck out for the shore, and aiding others as much as possible as they went. Others clung to the framework of the gangway, crying piteously for help.
Sink Crying for Help
Many, however, were unable to obtain assistance, and their cries became more and more feeble as they struggled to keep their heads above water, only to sink below the surface with a last despairing cry.

The first two bodies taken from the water were those of John Cote of 4 Washington street, aged 10, and Flower Pinter of 355 Chestnut street.
Physicians at once attempted to resuscitate them, but without avail, and their bodies were taken to the morgue.
Sergeant Timothy O'Brien, William Ward and Medical Examiner Dow, who were in charge of this work, next turned their attention to 11-year-old William Thornton of 32 Oxford street, whose body had been drawn from the water. For more than two hours they labored feverishly, but at length Dr. Dow was forced to pronounce him dead.
Mother Prayed Aloud
The boy's brother, Peter, aged 22, took part in the work of resuscitation while his hysterical mother and sister, held back in the crowd by the police, prayed aloud that their boy might live.
For some time it was thought that this was the extent of the casualties. Two hours after the accident happened, however, the police secured boats and grappling irons and began to drag the river.
They had been at work but a few moments when they brought to the surface the body of William Bolster, aged 10, of 305 Hampshire street. The bodies of other victims then followed in such rapid succession that divers labored feverishly, but at length Dr. Dow was forced to pronounce him dead.

CELEBRATE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

Veterans Gathered Today and Were Welcomed by Lindley

M. Garrison, Sec. of War

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 1.—Veterans of the Civil war, Union and Confederate, gathered together here today to commemorate the mighty battle fought on Gettysburg field 50 years ago, were welcomed by Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war. Mr. Garrison said:

"In the name of the nation, I bid you welcome. In the name of the whole people of a united country, I bid you twice welcome. In the name of its people who recognize the high importance of this fraternal gathering, you are thrice welcome."

"Once again, in the center of the world's attention. Once again does this field tremble under the tread of a mighty host—not now in fear, however, but in joy. The field of enmity has become the field of unity. You have trodden under foot the bitter weeds of hate and anger, and in their places have sprung up the pure flowers of friendship and love."

"Gettysburg seems destined to be the stage upon which shall be unfolded the scene of the nation's drama. Within the short span of 50 years, its gentle slopes and placid plains have witnessed three scenes of great historic import: running the whole gamut of man's three-fold nature. Each scene has been unique and typical of its kind: first the battle, with its almost unexampled display of the physical powers of man; then the great heart and mind of Abraham Lincoln, bodied forth in his wonderful address delivered here; and last, this solemn pageant of the spirit, the scene of which each of us is so privileged to witness. So we have body, mind and spirit, each displaying its distinctive characteristics to their fullest extent upon this small stage of the world's great theatre."

Remains Ever Memorable

"Fifty years ago today, there began here one of those conflicts between man and man, marked by such exhibitions of valor, courage and superhuman strength, that it has engraved itself upon the tablet of history, there to remain ever memorable. Equal met equal, and in the domain of physical prowess all were worthy of medals of honor. The superiority was that of the individual strength of the man, and long as men love valor and worship heroes, the name of Gettysburg, and of those who fought there, will be ever on their lips. Four months afterwards, the field of Gettysburg inspired in the great heart of Abraham Lincoln the most wonderful prose poem ever written. Its music literally rang round the world and sang in the hearts of men, and will continue to sing in the blood of the sons of men until Time itself shall be no more."

"And last, but by no means least, this gathering here upon the field of Gettysburg today. Thousands and tens of thousands of former foes are here gathered together in brotherly union. You who first met upon this field to slay each other, are now here to salute each other, to do honor to the one to the other, now meet here to outvie one another in deeds of kindness and friendship and love. History holds no parallel. This meeting is the final demonstration that the last embers of the former time have been stamped out, and the great conflagration, which it was feared would consume our country, merely served to weld the different parts of it so firmly together and into such a perfect whole that no power can ever break it. The Civil war was a battle for ideals, and if our beloved country could withstand a war waged for ideals, one waged for any lower, baser purpose can never overthrow it."

Can See the Truth

"Time has enabled us to attain a truer perspective than was possible while nearness to the conflict obscured the fact. Looking back with an unbiased eye, we can see the truth: we can see that in the very nature of things some conflict was necessary to settle great questions for which there was no peaceful tribunal; we can see that the war of '61 was fought by men upon each side for the right as each saw it; we can acclaim with out abandoning any view which we may hold, that the men on each side were actuated by high, pure purposes, and were compelled by their consciences to do what they did. Before the war we were a loosely connected band of communities; we emerged from it a firmly united nation."

"We must recall that the settlers of our country came from all parts of the world, actuated by no common impulse, and associated for no common purpose; that the constitution was without a model, and at the inception it loosely bound together thirteen commonwealths that had little in common excepting the necessity of combinations against an outer enemy. Each state or community, almost of necessity, be-

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made Her a Well Woman.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—"I have always had great confidence in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I found it very good for organic troubles and I recommend it highly. I had displacement, backache and pains when standing on my feet for any length of time, when I began to take the medicine, but I am in fine health now. If I ever have those troubles again I will take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

—Mrs. ED. FERRON, 816 High St., Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin.

Providence, R.I.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it has done wonders for me and I would not be without it. I had organic displacement and bearing down pains and backache and was thoroughly run down when I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me and I am in the best of health at present. I work in a factory all day long besides doing my housework so you can see what it has done for me. I give you permission to publish my name and I speak of your Vegetable Compound to many of my friends."

40 WOMEN COMMITTED SUICIDE

Became Desperate as Result of Treatment by the Victorious Rebels in Durango

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—Forty women residents have committed suicide in the city of Durango since its occupation last week by the rebels after a prolonged siege, according to a private letter received here from that city today. The women, it is said, became desperate as the result of their treatment by the victorious rebels. Regular advisers say that the rebels who entered Durango conducted themselves like bandits, burning a large part of the business portion of the city after looting it and joining in the wild excesses. The report says that foreign flags were not respected.

A few American citizens were wounded during the fighting and one Republican was killed, according to these reports. Private advisers from other sources say that a group of German women in Durango were subjected to gross indignities by the rebel adherents. The Mexican government is preparing a column of troops to march to the relief of the city but many days must pass before its arrival there. In the meantime it is assumed here that the occupation of Durango by the rebels has done nothing toward relieving the famine-like conditions prevailing there, except perhaps that a fresh supply of beer has been taken in.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Five persons were turned to death and twenty or more seriously injured in a fire which destroyed an immigrant hotel at 84 Greenwich street in the downtown section late last night. The hotel, which had been booked to sail from New York today for their homes in Europe, was a three-story brick building. The bodies, which were removed to a police station early today, were those of three unidentified men, a woman and a child. They lost their lives in almost the twinkling of an eye when the ancient three-story brick building was crumpled by the flames. There were nearly 35 lodgers in the house, most of whom had come from other cities and had been provided with lodgings there by a steamship agent who was arranging for their passage to Europe. The little building was so crowded that six or more persons were lodged in a single room. Many were burned as they dashed through the flaming hallway and were forced to leap to further injury as they landed on the pavements below. At least half a dozen were placed on the dangerous list at the hospital.

The police began an investigation of the fire today as its origin was mysterious and suspicion was aroused by the fact that another fire of unknown origin in the hotel only the night before.

TOWN OF TYNGSBORO: DROWNED IN SEWER

To Celebrate the Fourth Earth About Trench Caved in

The recent fire at Tyngsboro, destroying a portion of the bridge, general store and post office, cottage house and grain elevator, has stirred the citizens of that town to immediate action on the proposition for better fire protection and it is now but a question of agreeing what to do with the resources at command.

At a citizens' meeting the proposition to purchase a modern auto fire apparatus was discussed and a majority of those present was in favor. A committee was appointed to investigate the cost of putting in water hydrants and also the cost of suitable chemical apparatus. The committee will report at a meeting to be called later for definite action.

The suggestion was made at the meeting that an auto fire apparatus could be made to serve the town of Dunstable as well as Tyngsboro and if this scheme should meet with the approval of the Dunstable authorities the cost of maintenance, both towns contributing, would be reduced to a minimum.

Tyngsboro has already had a fire automobile demonstration and it is said to have been a very satisfactory one. The demonstration was by the Kress Manufacturing Co. of Lawrence. The demonstration included a trip over the back country roads, a distance of about five miles being covered in fifteen minutes. There were about a dozen men in the machine and they were very well satisfied with the demonstration.

The contents of the 35 gallon cylinder was discharged and by means of the 200 feet of hose and an extension ladder the roof and cupola of the town hall was covered. This seemed entirely ample to cope with any fire likely to occur if discovered.

Later another test trip was made this time to the most remote corner of the town and over the worst roads, namely to Mashpog mill and pond. This required a trip through the village of Dunstable and was made in 15 minutes.

July Fourth Pageant

Tyngsboro is planning for a big Fourth of July pageant and great enthusiasm is being manifested in Dunstable as well as in Tyngsboro and the churches in both towns are cooperating. It is planned to have a picnic dinner and everybody is requested to bring enough for himself or herself and a little more.

There will be about 30 characters representing the original Red Men of the Merrimack valley, the real native Americans in their court costumes, as worn by the countless chiefs and doughty braves who held dominion from Winnepesaukee and Pennacook to Saugus and the sea.

The patriotic program preceding the pageant proper will consist of national airs by orchestra and chorus, the reading of the immortal declaration by the Rev. J. I. Allen, brief patriotic address by the Rev. Albert F. Newton of Dunstable and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Charles L. Crowley, a call man on hose 9, was injured about the head by falling timber and was removed to his home in Lincoln street.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Storehouse Owned by Local Contractor and Situated at Fair Grounds Burned Early This Morning

A storehouse, owned by Contractor Michael T. Murphy, and situated in the rear of the old Middlesex North Agricultural fair building on the fair grounds, in Gorham street, was destroyed by fire between midnight and 1 o'clock this morning. The loss including the contents of the building, consisting of building material, is estimated at about $1200.

The fire was discovered by Patrolman John A. Clark and he pulled in an alarm from box 35 at the corner of Manchester and Gorham streets. The fire, though confined to the one building, was quite spectacular and persons in the Highlands and other sections of the city thought that a mammoth fire was in progress. The blaze illuminated the sky but it didn't last very long. The building was in flames when the firemen arrived and their main effort was to prevent the fire from spreading to the fair building, nearby. The fair building is being used as a storehouse by a local concern and is filled with cotton.

FOUR SISTERS DROWNED

ELKHAM 1, Ind., July 1.—Four sisters were drowned yesterday when three of them sprang into the St. Joseph's river in a vain attempt to save the youngest sister. The other girls, Alice, 18, Clara, 15, and Ida, 11, attempted to save her and themselves were drowned. The bodies were recovered.

DENIES MULHALL CHARGE

Pres. Pope Makes a Caustic Reply

NEW YORK, July 1.—In a statement issued last night, Col. George Pope, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, replied to the charges made by Martin M. Mulhall, in reference to the political activities of the association. In connection with Mr. Mulhall's employment with the association, Col. Pope declared that "Mr. Mulhall's connection with this association was severed by dismissal October 23, 1911 and he has had no right to represent it in any capacity since that time, although we have received information from various sources that he has done so. Some of his most serious charges relate to events subsequent to that time."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

About 125 members attended the meeting of Court General Dixon, No. 217, held in Grafton last night. The meeting was called to order by Past Chief Ranger Murphy and after considerable routine business was transacted the matter of withdrawing from the grand court funeral fund was opened. Past Chief Ranger Murphy spoke in regard to the fund assessments and a plan was outlined by which the money could be used to better advantage to the court. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Chief ranger, Michael Monahan; sub-chief ranger, James Haley; senior woodward, John Mulligan; junior woodward, Michael Daley; recording secretary, Joseph A. Lorrain; senior beadle, Thomas Horton; junior beadle, Jean Boulger. After the closing of the meeting refreshments were served and a musical program was given.

DAVID'S VOICE HEARD

In Merrimack Square and Wearing Saved Boy from Being Hit by Limousine

Quick brain work and the marvelous lung power of Office Dave Petrie, the popular policeman who watches over the traffic in Merrimack square, prevented a serious accident yesterday. Two youngsters were playing tag about the square and one of them was pursuing the other. Suddenly the fugitive ran out into the street and in looking about to ascertain the whereabouts of his pursuer, set his course in a direction that would have carried him directly in the path of a large limousine going through the square. Dave saw the lad and cut loose a roar of warning that bystanders said must have been heard in Dracut. The lad heard and gave heed and stopped in his tracks, giving the chauffeur just a fraction of a second to swerve the machine to one side, barely grazing the boy's clothes. His escape could not have been closer. Thus did the "voice of Petrie" save a life.

HON. J. JACOB ROGERS, M. C.

Graduating Exercises Held Last Night—Addresses by Geo. M. Harrigan and Cong. Rogers

The graduation exercises of the Lowell Commercial college were held last evening in Associate hall and were attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young people who had completed their course. It was also the 54th anniversary of the school. Hon. John Jacob Rogers, M. C., and George M. Harrigan were the speakers of the evening and his Honor Mayor James E. O'Donnell presented the diplomas.

Following is the program of the evening:

March, "Progressive," Cushman Orchestra.

Address of Welcome George M. Harrigan, President Lowell Board of Trade.

Intermezzo, "Vandy," Matthews Orchestra.

Address to Graduates Hon. John Jacob Rogers, M. C.

Selection, "Lion's Chase," Knollings Orchestra.

Presentation of class gift John E. Black.

Waltz, "Firefly," Friml Orchestra.

Presentation of diplomas Mayor James E. O'Donnell.

Calop, "At Ned," Pick Orchestra.

In his address, Mr. Harrigan complimented the Lowell Commercial college on the good work which it has accomplished during the past 54 years and said that the students had rendered him valuable services on occasions when he had telephoned to the college to send someone. He congratulated the graduates on completing their course.

Mr. Harrigan introduced Congressman John Jacob Rogers, whose address was highly interesting and beneficial. He dwelt on the need of moderation in business that one may not become greedy and seek gain at the expense of others and he referred to the class differences, giving as examples the strikes at Lawrence and New Jersey. He pointed out the great value of the education afforded by the Lowell Commercial college for a successful and satisfying business career, instilling certain admirable characteristics into the work and forming the character of the student.

He gave a brief history of sten-ography to the graduates and then emphasized the high confidence which is placed in a stenographer by an employer, dictating letters and matters of privacy, and the necessity of stenographers respecting this confidence placed in them.

In conclusion Mr. Rogers said, "I have been often struck," he said, "in talking with some doctors, with the fact that they were ready to discuss their patients and their maladies. I have sometimes talked with lawyers who have been willing to discuss their clients' cases. I have sometimes talked with bankers and brokers who were prepared to relate certain confidential information about some of their clients. Of course, I am simply speaking of a few of each class. The average man does not like to have his affairs talked about. If he comes to a person for advice, or has confidential relations with anyone, he does not care to have his affairs talked about. Now, you young people just starting out will occupy many of you—highly confidential positions. There is no position, I will venture to say, more confidential than that which the stenographer bears to his employer. You are the companion of your employer; you necessarily know the innermost affairs of his business; and it is for you to decide whether you will be a servant to him, or a pleasant and interesting conversationalist, along the line of your business, and perhaps give away things which he would especially desire to be kept secret. The main maxim, it seems to me, that you have got to think of before anything else, is to keep your mouths shut. With that consideration, I will wish you all a most joyous life in business and out of business, as long as you all shall live."

In presenting the diplomas, his Honor Mayor O'Donnell spoke a few brief words of congratulation and encouragement and commended the school and faculty upon their excellent methods of training the young men and women for business.

Following the exercises, the hall was cleared of the seats and dancing was enjoyed. Following is the list of graduates: Grace D. Balmworth, No. Billerica; Gladys L. Bishop, Lisbon, N. H.; Charles E. Bourk, Lowell; Marion E. Bradley, Springfield, Vt.; An-

Parents, Read this Letter!

I have a letter from a prominent Maine clergyman in regard to sickness of one of his children from which I quote as follows:

"Our two-year-old baby was very sick at two different times and we came near losing her. We had the best doctors, but they did not know what the trouble was. In the first sickness she had high fever for several days, and the doctor said it acted like scarlet fever, but as there were no other cases he did not think it could be. Afterwards she broke out in a rash all over her body. The last sickness was similar and the doctor was puzzled. She was very nervous and we feared we would lose her. Your Dr. True's Elixir was recommended, and after two days' use she passed several worms from two to three inches in length, and is now well and strong and sleeps at night without fretting, tossing and starting in a fright as she did formerly."

I will be glad to furnish this clergyman's name and address to anyone who cares to write to me.

N.B.—True's Elixir is the best known remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles. Purely vegetable; pleasant to take and entirely harmless. Expels stomach worms and pinworms. All dealers, 35c; 50c; $1.00. Yours for better health,

Dr. True

Wilson and informal conferences with his committee assistants, to renew activity at once, instead of waiting until July 8 as he had planned.

The claims of Martin M. Mulhall of Baltimore that, as lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, he had for years maintained close relations with members of congress and financed their campaigns for re-election, have so intensified the feeling in congressional circles that the lobby committee has determined to proceed at once and to interrogate all persons connected with any of the recent lobby disclosures as rapidly as they can be heard.

WALSH FOR GOVERNOR

Plans for Campaign Are Made at Pittsfield

BOSTON, July 1.—Plans for carrying through the campaign of David I. Walsh for governor were framed yesterday afternoon at a conference held as a result of the Pittsfield meeting and the reassurance of Governor Foss to Major Walsh, brother of Lieutenant-Governor Walsh, that he did not intend to become a candidate.

The statement is not different, however, from other statements made by the governor, even when doing things that were taken to indicate that he desired to run for governor again. At the Pittsfield meeting the town and city chairmen of the five western counties met and went on record for Mr. Walsh for governor.

Mayor Fitzgerald has put it squarely up to the governor that it is his duty to retire.

CARMEN IN DEADLOCK

Arbitration is Now Declared to be Necessary

BOSTON, July 1.—Arbitration is now declared to be necessary to bring about an adjustment of wages and working conditions satisfactory to the Boston Elevated and its employees. Another conference was held yesterday between committees representing the Street Carmen's union and the Elevated officials relative to the wage increase and the time required by the union, two or three months ago.

It was declared, however, that a point has now been reached where arbitration must be resorted to, although the conferences which have been held for months have failed to reach the method of arbitration is fixed upon.

SIR JOHN MURRAY SCOTT

Contest Over His Will to Go to Jury

LONDON, July 1.—Lady Sackville and her family today entered a general denial of the allegations made by the family of the late Sir John Murray Scott that they had influenced Sir John to leave to them the bulk of his fortune of $5,000,000.

The testimony for the defense being concluded, Sir Edward Carson, counsel for the Sackvilles, addressed the jury. He first asked the judge to declare that no evidence had been brought forward to show the existence of a codicil to the will which Sir John Murray Scott was alleged to have made in 1910 or 1911 revoking the legacy to Lady Sackville or that there was any evidence of fraud or undue influence against the Sackvilles. The judge, however, decided that the case must go to the jury.

HUERTA TO MEET AMERICANS

Provisional President of Mexico Accepts Invitation to Attend July 4th Festivities

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—Although Provisional President Huerta has accepted the invitation sent to him to meet the American residents of Mexico City during their festivities on the Fourth of July, the colony in Mexico City will celebrate the day this year without the presence of the American ambassador.

Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson has decided to go to Vera Cruz to participate in the festivities on board the vessels of the United States navy there. He will thus avoid the embarrassment of what might be construed an official contact between the president of the Mexican republic and the representatives of a nation which has not recognized his government.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

Demonstrated in Contracts Let Out by the Army for Feeding Officers and Men

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The increasing cost of living the country over is demonstrated in contracts let out by the army for feeding the officers and men of the revenue cutter service during the new fiscal year beginning today.

New York city, according to the contract, shows the greatest increase. It will cost $4.55 each day to feed each sailor as against $3.35 last year. Baltimore and Boston are the only cities showing slight decreases in a long list, the cost in Baltimore dropping from $4.11 to $4.01 and in Boston from $3.75 to $3.55.

THE BUDGET PLAN

The budget plan which had the approval of Presidents Taft and Wilson and the support of such influential democratic leaders as Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, probably the most powerful influence in democratic legislation at the present time, Speaker Clark, and Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, has been turned down by the house, and a very great and much needed reform has been indefinitely postponed. The reform, which was based on the English plan, did not die for want of enthusiastic support, but the convincing arguments of the leaders failed of their purpose, and the Underwood plan was laid on the table by a close vote. Incidentally, it is the first instance of a lack of unanimity in democratic circles in Washington since the inauguration of President Wilson.

No argument in favor of the budget plan can be stronger than that contained in the statement of Chairman Underwood that under the present system of federal appropriations, the government action is haphazard. There is no method by which a sense of proportion is maintained between the income and the outlay, and the fact that things have come out all right up to the present do not prove the existence of system, but rather that the government appropriations have been fairly successful in spite of a lack of system. The committee that attend to the various phases of government outlay and income act independently of each other, and there is not even the semblance of a comprehensive system of outlay and expenditure such as is adhered to by any private business concern worthy of the name. Mr. Underwood proposed to reform these conditions by the creation of a central committee on estimates and expenditures with full and final control over all appropriations and power to combine them in a budget. He would also give this committee the right to fix the maximum expenditure for each session of congress.

The greater part of the opposition to the Underwood budget plan was founded on the belief that such a committee as the budget plan aimed at creating would possess excessive power. The opposition held that such a commission would constitute "the most gigantic trust ever formed," and the house did not show any desire to surrender its power of control and variation over the national expenditures. Perhaps their attitude was in part justifiable. In matters such as the appropriation of government money it does not seem wise to remove the final jurisdiction altogether from the legislative bodies that are representative of all parts of the union, and much good could have been done by a budget system which would have systematized and centralized the handling of money without demanding the absolute relinquishment of the authority of the house to exceed the estimates approved by the budget committee.

Though the clever appeal to the present prejudice against the policy of centralization in any form has been successful in defeating the budget plan for a season, such a plan must ultimately be adopted. The British budget system is an example for all nations to follow, and America is about the only nation of any importance where political considerations rather than sound business considerations dominate the distribution of the gifts from the "pork barrel." In a more enlightened spirit, the fruit of ripe experience, and the consciousness of having made serious mistakes, the people of the country will demand from legislators the same business perception and respect for economy which underlies all sound business, whether private or political, and when legislators wake up to a realization of their great responsibility in this respect, they will look more favorably on a budget plan as has been recently discarded.

POLICY TOWARDS MEXICO

It is very evident that our present policy towards Mexico cannot continue indefinitely. At a time of war and strained relations such as obtained immediately before the murder of Madero, when any American interference might have precipitated relations that would be a menace to peace and prosperity for years, it was necessary that this country should act with great prudence and forbearance, but when indignities are still perpetrated against American life and property in Mexico, apparently without protest from the usurper Huerta, it is time that we should assert ourselves and see if we are not in a position to demand the fundamental exercise of justice in the attitude of Mexico at least towards America and things American.

Senator Lodge, who has certainly been conservative in national and international policies, called attention to this fact last Friday in the debate on the Mexican situation in the senate. He emphasized the fact that he did not intend his remarks as a criticism of the policy of this administration, merely, as he had voiced the same views during the term of President Taft. He was also positive in announcing that he counseled nothing which could be construed as a declaration of warlike attitude, but he virtually said that Mexico is taking advantage of the patience of America, and is lulling her misdeeds in our faces—made brave by the seeming American indifference. To show what diplomacy may do, when a government shows itself in earnest, he quoted the example of Germany which demanded and obtained 100,000 marks for the family of a German killed during one of the sporadic revolutions. This was obtained through the German minister without any trouble, but though some American families were wiped out either wholly or in part during recent revolutions, and an enormous amount of American property destroyed, no indemnity has been received. Instead we have had to listen to some very uncomplimentary things from pseudo-President Huerta, because this country did not run to welcome him with open arms when he rose to power gained by murder and dissimulation.

Surely when Germany forces Mexico to respect the rights of German residents in the seething republic, America can do likewise. There is a very strong anti-American attitude there, it is true, but that is no reason why we should exercise an unnecessary patience eternally. Rumors of impending revolutions presage another stormy period under the Huerta regime, and now is the time for the administration to make formal protest against a resumption of the attitude towards American residents in Mexico which made such unpleasant reading during the last revolution.

THE RUNNING BOARD

The monotonous accounts of drownings and other summer accidents are sometimes varied by the account of a death or serious injury sustained by one or many because of crowding on the running boards of cars, or the lack of the exercise of due care thereon. In many cities this riding on running boards is not permitted, but in communities such as ours where it is tolerated the greatest care should be exercised because it is a very risky proceeding, and one that wise men shun persistently. Yet, if proper care were exercised by railroad companies, the danger of accident from this source would be reduced to a minimum.

In the closed cars of winter, there is usually a notice which tells "how many people can be accommodated," and though it is disregarded usually by both the railroads and the public, it is refreshing, as testifying to the fact that a certain limited space will hold only a limited number of people. In the summer cars, however, there is not even this empty recognition of the scientific fact, and the number accommodated depends on the number that can be condensed into small space by methods which impose unwelcome conditions on all who ride. When the seats are full the aisles begin to fill up, and when no more can pile on without a special compressing apparatus, the running boards are patronized to capacity. It is useless to speak of comfort, but where there is an element of danger the greatest caution should be exercised.

Many cities have adopted a style of car which has a certain vestibule, even in summer, and there has been some talk of their adoption locally. This would do away with the running board nuisance, but because of the prohibitive cost, it is not probable that we shall have them very speedily. In the meantime those who ride on running boards should stand close to the car, secure a firm footing, and hold on tightly to the provided supports. A little care will save much pain and a big hospital bill.

THE LOBBY

Is there one who, having followed the lobby investigation at Washington, can honestly say that it has not been justified by the disclosures made thus far? Those good, old-fashioned senators who hold little rocky farms in New Hampshire and elsewhere must have been guileless and artless indeed to have escaped its insidious influence. Even the president must be astounded at some of the recent disclosures, and the sensations promised after still more flagrant instances of a gross misuse of wealth and power. The lobby monster is hydra-headed indeed, but the heads, though many, are limited in number. If the investigation succeeds in cutting them all off, it will have done an inestimable service to the country, though the time needed to uncover all the slippery coils may drag itself out to many days and weeks. There is not much good in passing tariff and currency bills until it is sure that the primary aim of those who support or oppose them is the good of the country, and not the interest of the corrupt few.

Commissioner Danahy has done well in persevering in a search for a practical traffic marker until he found one that promises to be satisfactory in most particulars. The pointed lines on the street became faint and were easily washed away, but the metal signs are permanent in quality and cannot easily be ignored. It now remains for the police department to be just as persevering in seeing that the new signs are honored and observed. They are in accordance with all that stands for public safety and respect for law.

Seen and Heard

Miss Lousine—There's Mrs. Russell nothing to you. Do you know her?
Miss De Jones—I don't know her. Her car is only 15-horsepower. I merely bow.

Bishop Candler of Atlanta, apropos of worldly business, said the other day: "There was a worldly person of this type in Philadelphia—a great fox hunter—when a Spruce street Quaker took him home."
"Friend," said the Quaker, "I understand there's a fox catching." "I have few equals and no superiors at that sport," the person complacently replied.

"Nevertheless, friend," said the Quaker, "if I were a fox I would hide where these would never find me."
"Where would you hide?" asked the person with a frown.
"Friend," said the Quaker, "I would hide in thy study."

Mrs. Madison, whose latest hobby is the psychology and the esoteric influence of colors, says Youth's Companion, was deeply gratified when her husband, who was urging, that there might be something in her theory after all.

"Dawson put me on to it today at the farm," Mr. Madison continued. "Lawson," continued Mr. Madison, "my friend, for Dawson is the manager of my husband's stables, and unknown among psychologists."
Mr. Madison nodded. "He says the boys put more than the gray."

Really! It was a humble victory, but Mrs. Madison's face glowed with triumph. "How does Dawson account for it?"
"There are 10 more bays than grays," said Mr. Madison.
There is a real live movement on foot to have "The Drama Players" return to Lowell a second season, and the movement seems to be "catching on" with the business men. "The Drama Players," said one business man, "besides furnishing good, clean entertainment, put considerable money in circulation during a season, and understand that the theatergoers of Lowell are responding heartily to the subscribers' lists that were started a few weeks ago in order to assure a second season of The Drama Players under Kendal Weston's direction. I met Mr. Weston about a week ago, and he told me the appeal has been very successful. He said that the lists call for enough of the high priced seats to fill them solid four nights out of the six and there are some 20 papers yet to be heard from."

About 25 years ago, when Judge Du Rolle was assistant district attorney, says the New York Sun, a fat mail carrier was held up at the point of the pistol while the highwayman slit the mail sack and took what he pleased. The mail carrier came back in tears to report the occurrence and three men, two white and one colored, understood that Uncle Sam rewarded me for the apprehension of mail carriers. The mail carrier started out upon the hot trail of the felon.

It happened that the robber, not expecting such a hasty pursuit, was walking slowly and he and the men soon overtook him just as he was on the point of entering a wood. The felon, some distance ahead of the three, slipped a squirrel in a treetop, drew a pistol from his pocket and brought it tumbling down with a bullet hole through his skull.

Immediately, says Judge Du Rolle, the two white men lost interest in the reward and started looking for supper. The negro, however, had an idea and put it to work. He caught up with the robber, walked along with him a piece and then saw another squirrel in a treetop.

"Get you can't hit that one," scoffed the negro.
That one also came down with a hole in his head. Soon the fat mail carrier was seen again, and he was seen in a third treetop.
"Get you can't do that again," sneered the negro.
The felon, that with the same result as before, then the negro went into the woods and started looking for supper. The negro, however, had an idea and put it to work. He caught up with the robber, walked along with him a piece and then saw another squirrel in a treetop.

THE BYPATH TALENT

"Mine has always been a bypath talent," John Burroughs.
The talent of the bypath.
It seeks the winding trail.
The shadows of the woodland.
The fields where call the quail.
For it no dusty highways.
No roads where mankind throngs—
And those who have such talent
Press forward with glad songs.

The talent of the highway.
It follows the straight line;
It follows the fading light.
The stars and moon and comrades
Gato the roadhouse owner.
The man who reads the bypath
Rests well when day is done.

The talent of the bypath—
How it must ever split.
Among man's greatest gifts!
For it no crushing vistas
Of frowning steel and stone;
The talent of the bypath
Flowers—and dies alone.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

As She Sees It

Lowell Courier-Citizen: Mrs. Clifford B. Harmon will build a $15,000 home for cats. We suggest that she name it Harmony hall—both in recognition of the donor, and because it will cultivate the news.

Gettysburg

Boston Herald: The loss of Cornish is the gain of Gettysburg—or rather it is the gain of President Wilson himself. For it was a wise second thought that he indulged in when he decided to change his mind and to attend the epoch-making reunion of the blue and the gray.

Millionaires

Boston Traveler: A New York judge of the influence has been attacking men of great wealth and assailing tariff tinkering before an alumni association in Troy. He considers the "idle millionaires" as "one of the most dangerous maladies." Perhaps they are, but the number of idle millionaires in this country is very small. Millionaires and multi-millionaires may be divided in two classes—those who work overtime while trying to add to their wealth, and those who work overtime while trying to get rid of their wealth.

Germany's New Tax

Newport News: Germany is determined to increase her income and support it, and to accomplish this is to impose a tax on all incomes of $1250 and upwards, on a graduated scale of from one to eight per cent. The increased armament of Germany, according to the government's financial estimates, will be largely paid for by this burden, as $40,750,000 of the $22,000,000 is to be derived from persons worth $250,000 and more, and $22,500,000 from those with incomes of more than $25,000 a year.

The Philippines

Johnstown Democrat: The Pittsburgh Post speaks of Admiral Dewey as "the conqueror of the Philippines." He is not entitled to this discredit. It belongs not to the man who destroyed the Spanish naval fleet in Manila bay, but to that general who obeyed orders from Washington in having his Philippine allies and upsetting their government, after a bloody war, the shame and disgrace of which can never be wiped out.

Banking

Lowell Sun: What is needed now more than any new paper money or any new currency scheme is sounder banking. The sound banking is the greater loyalty of bankers to sound principles of banking. A leading cause of the good record to be shown at the end of the year, at the end of the decade, will be the sound banking in which the bankers have acted up to the sound principles of banking.

Vocational

Manchester Mirror: Still children must have their playtime, though many educators feel that they would be better off if they had summer classes in handwork to give them regular discipline. The boys who have a garden to weed, papers to deliver, or a regular task that does not tire them, are better off than those that wander aimless and restless all day.

CONSIDER CURRENCY BILL

Members Will Have Week to "Dope" it

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The smooth moving speed of the legislative machinery planned to rush the administration currency bill through the house with dispatch was reduced yesterday at a conference of the democratic members of the house banking and currency committee. The majority members decided to allow themselves a week to think the bill over. They will meet again next Monday to plan the course of the measure through the committee to take up the question of holding public hearings on the bill and to discuss a proposition to make all committee deliberations open to the public.

Meantime, Chairman Glass was authorized to select an expert to advise with the committee. H. Parker Willis of New York may be the expert.

Avert General Strike

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., July 1.—Miners and operators of the New River coal field late yesterday ratified the terms agreed upon in conference here last week and the general strike of miners in that field, which was to become effective today has been avoided.

Money deposited on or before Saturday, July 5th, in The Lowell Five Cent Savings bank will draw interest from that day.

How to Make Your Hair Beautiful

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders. Stops Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Ray Rum, Lavender (de compound) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Use it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavender, 6 oz. Ray Rum and 1/2 dr. Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Ray Rum and pour in an 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavender, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly over the hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the scalp and scalp of dirt. Dust and excessive oil and makes the hair healthy, soft, and fluffy. To keep the hair from falling out, rub the hair again with the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days use and you cannot find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on. The hair will disappear and itching cease. In ten days you will find downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp. This new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

GREAT UNION OUTING

Planned by Manchester

Unity Odd Fellows

FOR ALL LODGES IN SOUTH-

WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS

British Societies of Lowell and Lawrence will omit their Outings and Join in the Picnic at Canobie Lake

Arrangements are being completed for the monster outing of the Manchester Unity, Odd Fellows and Odd Ladies at Canobie Lake Park, Salem, N. H., on July 19th. The United British societies of Lowell and Lawrence will omit their annual outing this year and will join with the Odd Fellows and Odd Ladies of the Manchester Unity in southern Massachusetts in the joint outing at Canobie Lake. George Brear and Mrs. J. Hart of Lawrence are chairman and secretary of the committee of thirty from the Lawrence lodges and Fred M. Silk and Frederick G. Humphries are chairman and secretary of a similar committee from Lowell. All lodges within a radius of fifty miles which includes lodges of Greater Boston and vicinity, Lynn and Gloucester, have received invitations to participate in the event. Special cars from Boston over the Bay State Railway Co.'s lines have already been engaged and will leave Sullivan Square via Lawrence and Lowell for Lowell on the day of the picnic. There will be all manner of sports and "old English games" winding up with a grand ball game between teams representing Lowell and Lawrence, music and dancing, refreshments, etc., and a beautiful souvenir program will be a feature.

Congressman John Jacob Rogers of the fifth congressional district will present a silver cup to the winners of the baseball game. The tug of war contest will be interesting as the famous teams from Harvard and Rensselaer lodges of Boston have entered and as there is considerable rivalry between these teams an exciting contest can be expected. A program of athletic sports and pastimes has been outlined that will give all ages, both men and women, an opportunity to compete for many valuable trophies which have been donated by enterprising business concerns and friends. With good weather on the day of the outing it is expected that from 5,000 to 10,000 people will attend. Lodges in and around Boston are already planning excursions to Canobie Lake on that day and the district officers are asking all who can to be present and unite with the lodges of the Merrimack valley and make the outing the success it deserves. Lodges in Forge Village, Littleton, Nashua and Manchester, N. H., will send large delegations. The committee having charge hopes to make the event an annual one, so that by these outings there may be developed a more extensive expansion of the social spirit which is one of the real features of the Manchester Unity. The joint committee on outing including Lowell, Lawrence and North Billerica are composed of 15 lodges representing a membership of 5000 members, and are as follows:

Lowell—Excelsior lodge, George Emery, Edward Rothwell, Thomas Holden, William Davis and George W. Emery; Integrity lodge, Fred Silk, George E. Chase, William Hutton, Guy Hunt, and Thomas Chadwick; Wampanoag lodge, Willis Bowles, Harold Housell, John Everett, John McKinley, and Frederick G. Humphries; Merrimack Valley lodge, Joseph Scobie, Arthur Judd, George Eastman, Benjamin Williams, and Joseph Pearson; Victoria Lodge of Old Ladies, Joseph Scobie, Mary Siddell, Alice Worth, Edith Toy and Fanny Crowther.

Lawrence—Essex lodge, Geo. Brear, Joseph Clough, John Cronheimer, Harry Murphy and Charles Fish; Hearts of Oak lodge, William Ford, James Emerson, Fred Watts, Charles Adams, and Harry Avery; Washington lodge, Asa Savon, Frank Miller, Fred Sykes, W. E. Curtis and Robert Taylor; Victoria lodge, Robert Johnson, Joseph Greaves, Sam Wright, David Patterson and Alexander MacFarland; Progressive Lodge of Odd Ladies, Florence Goodman, Jennie Hart, Agnes Dodd, Ada Whitman, and Jane Cooper; Lincoln Lodge of Old Ladies, Mary Thompson, Elizabeth Briggs, Eliza Holdsworth, Martha Astle and Jane Haughton.

North Billerica—Asa Pollard lodge, John Brown, George Hurst, John J. Whitehead, George Bostwick, and Francis Collins.

The sports committee has announced the following list of sports: 50 yard race for boys under 10 years, three-legged race for boys; skip rope contest for girls, tug of war for ladies, 50 yard race for girls, 100 yards race for girls, hop, step and jump; throwing baseball, quarter mile race, sack race, baseball game between Lowell and Lawrence, tug of war, 50 yard race for boys 14 to 15 years, fat men's race for married women, fat men's race, half mile race, marathon race from Lowell to Canobie Lake.

The British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, Governor Ross, Lieut. Gov. David I. Walsh, Col. Bent, Charles Sumner Bird, Congressman John Jacob Rogers and the mayors and board of aldermen of Lowell and Lawrence have been invited and will attend the outing.

A meeting of the joint committee of Lowell and Lawrence was held last night and Mr. Fred G. Humphries of this city was chosen the chief officer of the day. The Lowell committee will meet Wednesday evening, July 2, at the rooms of Mrs. George Eastman on Bridge street.

gress or by joint committees or commissions thereof. Strangely enough this information, though printed and distributed broadcast in connection with the committee hearings in the Massachusetts legislature, is exceedingly difficult to obtain about the meetings of the 130 or more regular congressional committees -- to say nothing of the sub-committees, special committees and so on.

It is a most curious fact which I have laid in mind for some months is to see in there could not be put upon the Federal statute books an act founded, generally speaking, upon the Massachusetts statute requiring the disclosure of the names of all lobbyists and of the names of all persons who make any compromise or opposition pending legislation. Such an act has seemed especially timely of late because of the very considerable discussion of the lobbying evil in Washington. However, my fail is not, directed against the lobbying bill, it is, a his title states, a bill to require the registration of so-called lobbyists is thus to bring them within the regulation and supervision of one of the two branches of congress."

As the bill is quite long we can give but a few of its principal sections.

Section 1 defines "legislative counsel" and "legislative agent," while section 2 prescribes the mode of registration and in what cases registration shall be required under this act.

each congress and dockets for the succeeding congress shall forthwith be returned within 30 days after adjournment of the congress to the legislative counsel or legislative agent whose name appears upon the dockets so closed shall file with the officer in charge of the docket or dockets in which the records are kept a true and correct and detailed statement, under oath, as to the facts in connection with each of all liabilities incurred and of all receipts and expenditures in connection with or in any manner relating to the closing of the docket of the employ. Such statement shall be open to public inspection. Every additional liability, receipt or expenditure, if not disclosed by said statement, shall be reported to the officer in charge within 30 days of the date of the transaction. Failure to so report such statement, similarly complete and detailed, under oath, and in a form satisfactory to such officer.

Section 10. That any violation of this act shall constitute a fine not more than five thousand dollars ($5000) or by imprisonment of more than one year, or both. Conviction of any such violation by a legislative agent shall constitute a crime shall operate as disqualification either as legislative counsel or legislative agent for a period of four years from the date of the conviction. Each house of congress may discharge any member of congress.

Orders Inquest

LAWRENCE July 1.—The search for possible additional victims of yesterday's accident when eleven boys were drowned in the Merrimack river was made today by a diver who explored the river bottom, and by boatmen who dragged the stream. It was generally believed that no more bodies would be found as all the boys reported missing last night had been accounted for this morning, but a thorough search of the river was made to determine beyond question the extent of the calamity. Before the search was concluded the investigation of the cause of the accident was well under way. The city

There was a very large congregation at the funeral services of the late Rev. James J. Bradley, which took place this morning at St. Michael's church in Sixth street. The service was a very solemn high mass of requiem which was celebrated for the repose of his soul. PENSIONS FOR CONFEDERATE VETS

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 1.—General Bennett H. Young, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, in an address today at the Gettysburg reunion, discussed the question of government pensions for the surviving soldiers who fought under the Stars and Bars. "It may be," he said, "that the suggestion lately put into form to give Confederate soldiers the same privileges in national soldiers' homes as federal soldiers may lead to the establishing of this right; or that peace in its demand for the obliteration of all the bitterness of the past may demand that the nation should pension surviving Confederates. I do not even suggest that in the name of my people say that it would be accepted, but this republic is a great destroyer of the cherished ideals of the past when they stand in the way of complete justice. For nearly 50 years the people of the south without complaint have contributed millions for the pensions of federal soldiers. A nation's gratitude has been meted out through enormous grants to provide for the federal soldiers, their wives and children. No murmur has ever come from the men of the confederacy at this vast outlay and there are some who predict that the hour may arrive in national life when the few and infirm remaining men who fought under the Confederate standard should have in the evening time the comforts and conveniences that their intrepidity deserves."

life of the Confederacy should have ever over their dust those magic words that touch the tenderest sentiments of a southern heart and proclaim highest distinction amongst those who love them because they died for the south. "The splendor and importance of this occasion is immeasurably enhanced by the fact that no explanations are sought or expected. The men were Confederates. True they were Americans but in this particular occasion they are distinctly Confederates. The scenes at Gettysburg today are the completest evidence of the greatness as well as the perpetuity of the republic can fall to read in the circumstances surrounding this celebration a people's government. "It is the breadth of thought, action and speech at this celebration that makes it so supremely great. If any southern man who comes here clad in the gray uniform so dear to him and those of his blood believed he would be expected even in thought to question the memories connected with the hero past he would go out from these tents and quickly march away. When the Confederate still loyal to the south with his heart still loyal to the south and those who made the four years of the confederate nation's life resplendent with heroism and glory and noblest sacrifice."

BRICK WORK ON VAULT

At Police Station Completed by Contractors

The brick work on the fireproof vault which is being built at the police station to hold the police court records is completed and the contractors are now waiting for the steel to arrive in order to finish the job. The building of this vault was started some time ago and will cost several thousand dollars when completed. The construction takes up a part of the guard room on the first floor and runs up through the clerk's office to the roof of the building. Two large spaces have been left open, one on each floor, and in these will be placed huge doors. The building of this vault was made necessary in order to insure safety of the records and books of the police court.

To Settle Claims

The meeting of the municipal council to be held tomorrow morning was suggested by Mayor O'Donnell for the purpose of attending to a number of claims for injury to property, personal injuries, etc., which have been accumulating for some time and His Honor is anxious to clean them up and get them out of the way.

GOMPERS UPHOLDS MULHALL

Labor Leader Confirms His Report of Attempted Bribery—Tells of Experiences With Convict

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Disclosures that promise to follow the reopening of the senate lobby committee investigation this morning are expected to be among the important developments of recent years in a congressional inquiry. The publication of Martin M. Mulhall's story of how he had operated to influence legislation and elections in behalf of the National Association of Manufacturers, scores of labor leaders, present and former congressmen and others have come forward requesting that they be heard by the investigators. Louis J. Siebold of New York also has accepted service. He has been called as a newspaperman connected with the publication of the Mulhall statement to give the committee what information he can as to its preparation and as to the letters and telegrams Mulhall has agreed to produce.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor who figured prominently in Mulhall's story as the object of a long continued attack by those who attempted to bribe him and force him to give up his fight in behalf of labor legislation, has made public a detailed report of the attempted bribery. It confirms the story told by Mulhall.

The Gompers statement is a report that the labor leader prepared in 1907 after his experiences with Broughton Brandenburg, now a convict in Sing Sing who claimed to be in the employ of the National Association of Manufacturers. Efforts to secure private interviews with Gompers aroused the latter's suspicion and he took a number of labor leaders into his confidence and later made a full report to them of the occurrences that followed. He met Brandenburg, it says, under the advice and suggestion of other officials of the American Federation of Labor. Brandenburg, it says, represented himself as in charge of a bureau of the National Association of Manufacturers organized, it is said, to expose the immorality and dishonesty of the leaders in the labor movement.

Led Convict On
According to his report Gompers led Brandenburg on until the latter proposed that Gompers should prepare a general statement in the nature of a confession, should stand for reelection as president of the American Federation of Labor in 1908 and should then resign leaving the Federation of Labor crippled by his retirement and the exposure of other leaders.

"My object in coming to you is to say I want to save you," Brandenburg is quoted as saying. "I want to save you and while I do not want to express in specific financial terms what the National Association of Manufacturers is willing to do yet I can guarantee that you would be financially safe for the balance of your life."

President Gompers and other officials of the Federation of Labor will probably testify before the senate committee as the alleged activities of the lobbyists bore directly upon national legislation.

John Kirby, Jr., and D. M. Parry, who are expected to sail today from San Francisco for Australia, wired Chairman Overman asking to be excused from testifying before the senate committee now, but promising to appear on their return in several months. To change their plans now, they telegraphed, would cost them about $3000 each. Chairman Overman today wired the two men to hold themselves in readiness to appear.

TWO ACCIDENTS

Little Girl Stepped on Broken Bottle While Playing and Man Had Leg Injured

Mary E. Tobin, a little girl who lives with her parents at 71 Fulton street, met with a painful accident this afternoon about 3 o'clock when she stepped on a broken bottle cutting her foot badly. She was taken to the Lowell hospital in the ambulance, where her cut was dressed.

Arthur Prescott, employed by the E. A. Wilson Coal company had his right leg injured this afternoon while loading coal from freight cars near the Chestnut street hospital. While working between two cars they came together striking his leg and bruising it severely. He was taken to the Lowell hospital.

Agent Doherty assumed charge at the Middlesex street station today and was introduced to the employees by Former Agent Taft.

Inspector of Supplies Laid Off

Abram Fenton, inspector of supplies in the purchasing department, was laid off today by Commissioner George H. Brown, in order to reduce expenses. Mr. Fenton is a civil service man and it is believed he has only been laid off temporarily. He has been an inspector in this department ever since the department was opened at city hall. They do say that if Mr. Brown had not used up his appropriation by employing an extra inspector, who was not needed, he would not now find it necessary to lay off Mr. Fenton.

Change in Program

The program for Fourth of July band concerts as given out by the mayor yesterday is subject to change and at least one change has already been made. The Lowell Cadet band was scheduled for a concert on the North common in the evening, but owing to the fact that there are too few musicians to go around if the bands were all playing at the one time and also because the people in the vicinity of the North common prefer a band concert in the afternoon, the mayor has set the time for the concert on that common at 3 o'clock instead of in the evening as was stated in the program.

Hurt By Fall

Frank Allen of Auburn street fell at the corner of Fletcher and Dutton streets this afternoon and sustained a bad cut over the eye. He was removed in the ambulance to St. John's hospital.

WADING POOL FOR THE SOUTH COMMON

Municipal Council Votes $2000 for That Purpose—Order for Public Baths Defeated

Municipal baths, wading pools and handstands, removal of dry closets from the public schools, the proper care of trees, and many other subjects were called to the attention of and discussed by the municipal council at a meeting held this forenoon. The only money voted by the council, however, was $2000 for wading pool and band stand on the South common. Ald. Barrett's $12,000 order for a swimming pool and shower baths in the Palmer street firehouse was killed and no action was taken on the estimate for swimming pools alone as presented by Commissioner Cummings. An order to borrow $2000 for the removal of dry closets from the high school went over till Saturday. Park commission members appeared before the council and made known their wants. The meeting was called at about 11:30 o'clock and adjourned at 1:55 to tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The petition of John Conroy et al, that a portion of Barrett street be macadamized and edgelines laid, was referred to the commissioner of streets and highways.

The petition of Otto M. Pihl et al, for a gas light opposite 25 A street, was referred to Commissioner Donnelly.

The petition of William H. Waterman, by his attorney, John J. Harvey, for damage to property in Ann street, was read and referred to the commissioner of public safety and the city solicitor.

The petitioner, represents that in the month of January, 1913, his property, numbered 27 Anna street, was damaged in consequence of the falling of the large maple tree which stood in the street in front of the premises. The New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. filed 11 agreements having to do with the erection and maintenance of poles. In consideration of the premises the company agreed to "demolish and save harmless" the city from all claims and damages.

The petition of the N. E. T. & T. Co. for permission to erect and maintain two poles on Crawford street was read and assigned for hearing July 15 at 11 a. m., as was the following petition:

Lowell Electric Light Corp., for permission to relocate one pole at the corner of Wampanoag street and West Bowers street.

Bay State Street railway for permission to erect and maintain four poles on the westerly side of Gorham street, from Auburn street to opposite Keene street and on the southerly side of South street, near Gorham street, one pole.

Bay State Street railway and Lowell Electric Light Corp., for permission to erect and maintain 15 joint poles on east side of Gorham street, between Elm street and Davis square.

Lowell Electric Light Corp., for permission to erect one pole on Kirk street, opposite Paige street.

N. E. T. & T. Co., for four poles on Powell street, between Liberty and Powell streets, and five poles on Blossom street, between 50 and 110.

Bay State Co. Scored

A hearing was declared open on the petition of the Bay State Street Railway Co., for permission to erect poles on Bridge street, from the northerly end of Merrimack river bridge to Sixth street.

The company was represented by A. G. Spicer, superintendent of lines and bonding.

Commissioner Cummings wanted to know why they can't have a joint line in Plain street. Mr. Cummings called the local inspector of wires, Mr. Mahoney, and the latter said that the Bay State street railway had refused to share the responsibility in Lincoln street with other electric companies as it being done in Bridge street.

"The trouble with you fellows is that we can't get any information out of you," said Mr. Cummings, addressing Mr. Spicer.

The latter replied that he couldn't carry everything in his head.

"We have to," said Mr. Cummings, "and I want to say that that man of yours in Boston refuses to give us any information."

The matter was referred to Commissioners Cummings and Donnelly.

LAWRENCE IN THE LEAD

In Game With Lowell at
Spaulding Park Today

The New England League champions and the Grays were the principals in a diamond clash this afternoon at Spaulding park and as usual they drew a good attendance. The fact that Lowell humiliated the down river aggregation in yesterday's contest in Lawrence stimulated the interest of the fans in the local team.

Pat Cawley, of Holy Cross fame, the new first baseman of the Grays, was an added attraction, for Pat's speed and form in handling the bat ones older at the third sack or at short, is well known all over New England. Manager Phipps appears to be well pleased with Cawley. The attendance numbered in the neighborhood of 1000.

"Red" Rorty was the official of the afternoon and was enthusiastically greeted by his many friends. "Red" is one of the leading arbiters of the circuit and enjoys unusual popularity. He summoned the players to their positions at 3 o'clock. The lineup:

Miller fanned. Daly grounded to the left field fence, sending Halstein to first. The holding of the ball was perfect. Pearson threw the ball out at first. Repe, Lawrence 6, Lowell 1.

GREECE AND BULGARIA AT WAR

Hostilities to Begin Without Declaration, Says Greek Foreign Minister

BERLIN, July 1.—Greece's purpose to start a Balkan war against Bulgaria without any formal declaration is set forth in a statement today of the Greek foreign minister to the correspondent at Athens of the Frankfurter Zeitung.

Pick Me Up Quick

Pepticon Pills Do It
A few days after taking Pepticon Pills you realize you are being "picked up." You are toned up and invigorated. This is due to the unusual tonic properties of these Pills, which we believe have never been equaled.

If you are pale, weak, nervous, run down, with no appetite and suffer generally, a 20c package of Pepticon Pills will change your whole condition. Get a box today and find health, strength and happiness.

Greece has answered all the preliminary steps of Greece by repeating the traditional boundary fixed a short time ago, the minister is quoted as saying. The Greek government feels forced to give the Macedonian divisions in its army the order to assume the offensive.

"We will in this way commence without a formal declaration and the Greek government will submit a statement in this sense to the Bulgarian government at Sofia today."

"Greece declines to accept the responsibility for this war, which unquestionably will have grave consequences."

FIGHTING WITH GREEKS AND SERBIANS OPPOSING BULGARIANS CONTINUES

LONDON, July 1.—Fighting between the Greeks and Serbians on the one side and the Bulgarians on the other was still proceeding today all along the line from Istip to Eleuthera, according to a dispatch from Sofia.

All the governments concerned declared that their troops have been instructed not to take the offensive unless attacked and each party is trying to throw on the other the responsibility for the commencement of the war between nations which recently were allies.

The Bulgarian minister at Athens today made a personal protest to Premier Venizelos against what he described as a Greek attack on the Bulgarian troops in the Pangalon district.

SERBIAN GOVERNMENT AGREED TO ARBITRATION BETWEEN SERBIA AND BULGARIA

HELIGRADE, Serbia, July 1.—The Serbian government today agreed to arbitration between Serbia and Bulgaria offered by the emperor of Russia and also to the proposed conference between the Balkan powers at St. Petersburg.

10,000 BULGARIAN SOLDIERS PARTICIPATED IN THE ENGAGEMENT

USKUP, July 1.—Fighting ceased at 2 o'clock this morning between the Bulgarian and Serbian troops in this district. The Serbian commander estimates that 10,000 participated in the engagement.

RUSSIAN MINISTER IS TO SUMMON BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT TO KEEP PEACE

VIENNA, July 1.—The Austrian newspapers declare today that the Russian minister at Sofia, Belgrade, and Athens have been instructed to summon for the last time the Balkan governments to keep the peace and to send their plenipotentiaries to St. Petersburg to enter on the situation.

council met in special session this forenoon and preparations for holding an inquest were made by the county authorities. Both inquiries had the same end in view, to determine the cause of and to place the responsibility for the disaster.

Alfred Bradbury, commissioner of public property and parks, is at the head of the department, having jurisdiction over the city bathhouses and John O. Battershill, superintendent of public property, has charge of the repairs on all municipal buildings. Supt. Battershill had certain repairs made on the bathhouse property in the spring. The accident, according to Battershill, was not due to any defect in construction but was caused by too many boys crowding the runway which broke beneath their weight.

Flags at Halfmast

In response to the request of Mayor Michael Sean on flags were displayed at halfmast on all the city buildings and from most of the business houses and private residences today. During the night the mayor visited each of the stricken families.

Funerals of most of the victims will be held tomorrow. There will be at 10 o'clock a double funeral when services for Secundus Eliebro, 16 years old, and the eldest of the victims and Flower Pinter, aged 11, will be held at the First Baptist church. Both boys were members of the Victoria club, one of the church organizations.

Vote to Pay for Funerals

At a special meeting of the city government this morning it was voted to pay $100 toward the funeral expenses of each of the victims and a committee comprising Mayor Seanlon, Aldermen Buchanan and Alderman Lynch was appointed to investigate the cause of the accident and report back to the city government at the earliest opportunity. Alderman Bradbury, head of the department in charge of the bath houses, told the members of the council that the same construction was used as had been the custom for years and that the work this year was in charge of the foreman who had superintended it for the past four years. He claimed that the boys made a rush on the arrival of the keeper and that when the runway sagged 15 inches it threw them into a panic, many being swept off as the bigger boys struggled to get off the walk, which finally gave way under the strain.

Inquest Ordered

Judge Mahoney of the Lawrence district court today ordered an inquest on a date to be set later.

60 BOYS PRECIPITATED INTO MERRIMACK RIVER WHEN GANGWAY COLLAPSED

LAWRENCE, July 1.—Eleven bodies of small boys, ranging in age from 8 to 15 years, were taken from the Merrimack river yesterday, victims of the collapse of a 75-foot gangway leading from the shore to one of the municipal bathhouses.

The total number of deaths has yet to be ascertained, as fully 50 boys were precipitated into the deep water when the gangway gave way as they leaped up and down in joy upon the arrival of the keeper.

At midnight the police were still dragging the river, and divers summoned from Boston were searching the bed, while an enormous crowd stood on the banks, and frenzied parents played aloud or rushed distractedly about, hoping to find their missing children in the throng.

Scathing criticisms of city officials who permitted such a condition were made freely and action has already been taken by parents of two of the dead boys, who engaged a photographer and civil engineer to make measurements preliminary to a thorough investigation.

Bodies Recovered

The victims whose bodies had been recovered up to midnight were as follows:

William Bolster, 10, son of Mrs. Mary Bolster of 305 Hampshire street.
Roland Jones, 3, son of Mrs. Margaret Jones of 32 Berkeley street.
Joseph Hennessey, 15, high school pupil, son of Mrs. Patrick Hennessey of 32 Russell street.
John Cote, 8, son of Frederick Cote of 4 Washington street.
Secundo Eliebro, 16, son of James Eliebro of 358 Chestnut street, mill operator.
Michael Wellens, 14, 364½ Common street.
Flower Pinter, 11, son of Peter Pinter, 355 Chestnut street.
Joseph Belanger, 8, son of Arthur Belanger of 79 Hancock street.
William J. Thornton, 10, son of John J. Thornton, 52 Oxford street.
Joseph McCann, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCann, 14 Florence place.

Most of Them Harbored

A number of the boys hoped to see the bath game at Riverside park after their swim, and each wished to be in the water as soon as possible. "Boy-like, they were anxious to 'duck-up' without any delay, and a large number carried their shoes and stockings, as well as coats in their hands."

As Keeper Blythe picked his slow and hesitating way towards the bath house he was greeted by a chorus of shrill yells, and the boys began to jump up and down on the gangway. As the stamping and shouts for the keeper to hasten increased the timbers groaned, cracked and the gangway sagged in the middle, dropping all the boys into the river.

Baseball Fans Assist

According to eye witnesses, every boy disappeared beneath the surface of the water, but in a short time hands began to bob up and hysterical shrieks for help filled the air. Police officers and fans at the Lawrence-Lowell ball game in Riverside park nearby at once hurried to the spot, as did many others, and the work of rescue began.

Some of the little fellows were able to swim, and at once struck out for the shore, and aiding others as much as possible as they went. Others clung to the framework of the gangway, crying piteously for help.

Sink Crying for Help

Many, however, were unable to obtain assistance, and their cries became more and more feeble as they struggled to keep their heads above water, only to sink below the surface with a last despairing cry.

The first two bodies taken from the water were those of John Cote of 4 Washington street, aged 10, and Flower Pinter of 355 Chestnut street.

Physicians at once attempted to resuscitate them, but without avail, and their bodies were taken to the morgue.

Sergeant Timothy O'Brien, William Ward and Medical Examiner, who they had been at work but a few were in charge of this work, next turned their attention to 11-year-old Secundus Eliebro, 361 Middlesex street, aged 16, of 435 Hampshire street. The whose body had been drawn from the bodies of other victims then followed water. For more than two hours they labored feverishly, but at length Dr. were summoned from Boston.

Down was forced to pronounce him dead.

Mother Prayed Aloud

The boy's brother, Peter, aged 22, took part in the work of resuscitation, while his hysterical mother and sister, held back in the crowd by the police, prayed aloud that their boy might live.

For some time it was thought that this was the extent of the casualties. Two hours after the accident happened, however, the police secured boats and grappling irons and began to drag the river.

For some time it was thought that this was the extent of the casualties. Two hours after the accident happened, however, the police secured boats and grappling irons and began to drag the river.

They had been at work but a few were in charge of this work, next turned their attention to 11-year-old Secundus Eliebro, 361 Middlesex street, aged 16, of 435 Hampshire street. The whose body had been drawn from the bodies of other victims then followed water. For more than two hours they labored feverishly, but at length Dr. were summoned from Boston.

Down was forced to pronounce him dead.

CELEBRATE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

Veterans Gathered Today and Were Welcomed by Lindley M. Garrison, Sec. of War

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 1.—Veterans of the Civil war, Union and Confederate, gathered together here today to commemorate the mighty battle fought on Gettysburg field 50 years ago, were welcomed by Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war. Mr. Garrison said:

"In the name of the nation, I bid you welcome. In the name of the people of a united country, I bid you twice welcome. In the name of its people who recognize the high importance of this fraternal gathering, you are thrice welcome."

"Once again in Gettysburg the center of the world's attention. Once again does this field tremble under the tread of a mighty host—not now in fear, however, but in joy. The field of empty has become the field of amity. You have trodden under your feet the bitter weeds of hate and anger; and in their places have sprung up the pure flowers of friendship and love."

"Gettysburg seems destined to be the stage upon which shall be unfolded the scenes of a great historic drama. Within the short span of 50 years, its gentle slopes and placid plains have witnessed three scenes of great historic import, running the whole gamut of man's three-fold nature. Each scene has been unique and typical of its kind: first, the battle with its all too unexampled display of the physical powers of man; then the great heart and mind of Abraham Lincoln, bodied forth in his wonderful address delivered here; and last, this assemblage, the deep spiritual significance of which can scarcely be exaggerated. So we have body, mind and spirit, each displaying its distinctive characteristics to their fullest extent upon this small stage of the world's great theatre."

Remain Ever Memorable

"Fifty years ago today, there began here one of those conflicts between man and man, marked by such exhibitions of valor, courage and almost superhuman endurance as to engrave itself upon the annals of history, there to remain ever memorable. Equal not equal, and in the domain of physical prowess all were worthy of medals of honor. The superiority was that of resources, not of individual strength or courage. So long as men love valor and worship heroes, the name of Gettysburg, and of those who fought there, will be ever on their lips. Four months afterwards, the field of Gettysburg inspired in the great mind and heart of Abraham Lincoln the words of his immortal address, which will live forever in the hearts of men, and will continue to sing in the blood of the sons of men until time itself shall be no more."

"And last, but by no means least, this gathering here upon the field of Gettysburg today. Thousands and tens of thousands of former foes are here gathered together in brotherly union. You who first met upon this field to vie with each other in doing hurt to the other, now meet here to outvie one another in deeds of kindness and friendship and love. History holds no parallel. This meeting is the final demonstration that the last embers of the former time have been stamped out, and the great conflict which was waged would consume our country, merely served to weld the different parts of it so firmly together and into such a perfect whole that no power can ever break it. The Civil war was a battle for ideals; and if our beloved country could withstand a war waged for ideals, one waged for any lower, baser purpose can never overthrow it."

Can See the Truth

"Time has enabled us to attain a truer perspective than was possible while the conflict obscured the fact. Looking back with an unbiased eye, we can see the truth; we can see that in the very nature of things some such conflict was necessary to settle great questions for which there was no peaceful tribunal, we can see that the war of '61 was fought by men upon each side for the right as each saw it; we can acclaim, without abandoning any view which we may hold, that the men on each side were actuated by high pure purposes and were compelled by their consciences to do what they did. Before the war we were a loosely connected band of communities; we emerged from it a firmly welded-together nation."

"We must recall that the settlers of our country came from all parts of the world, actuated by no common impulse, and associated for no common purpose; that the constitution was without a model, and at the inception it loosely bound together thirteen commonwealths that had little in common excepting the necessity of combinations against an outer enemy. Each state or community, almost of necessity, became self centered; and communication and commerce in those days was so slight that there was little intercommunion of any sort between the people of the different sections of the land."

Energy to Develop

"At the time of the Civil war this great, wonderful experiment in self-government was only 72 years old, and up to that time each community had busied itself with great energy to develop its own resources and increase its own strength and means. So busy was each community in those pioneering days that, whatever the inclination might have been, there was little time or opportunity for mutual consultation and effort."

"And then the time for the inevitable arrived. Those who honestly believed that the United States was a voluntary association of independent sovereign states met in irrepressible conflict those who honestly believed that the United States was an indivisible union of otherwise independent states. Each side, with all the earnestness of those whose hearts, minds and consciences are committed to an ideal, sought to mold the government to their respective views. There was no earthly tribunal before which this great issue could be tried and determined. The most unexampled display of the physical powers of man; then the great heart and mind of Abraham Lincoln, bodied forth in his wonderful address delivered here; and last, this assemblage, the deep spiritual significance of which can scarcely be exaggerated. So we have body, mind and spirit, each displaying its distinctive characteristics to their fullest extent upon this small stage of the world's great theatre."

"The war that followed had no element of wantonness, or aggression, or lust of gain; and no men of purer spirit ever lived than those who waged it upon the respective sides. It found the states, in its beginning, like a loosely tied together bundle of faggots, and at its end, and when the wounds of it had been healed, it left a great sturdy oak as the central body of our union, with sturdy branches of intense vitality firmly attached to it. Hence, whatever one's views may have been upon the righteousness of the issue, wholesome respect to those of each side must be rendered. Such a gathering as this we have witnessed today would not otherwise have been possible."

Nation Founded Through Pain

"It is through pain that we attain anything of value; it was through pain that this nation found itself; and upon the great foundation thus secured and established, proceeded to advance with giant strides to the forefront of the nations of the earth."

"Can we not today, penetrated as we are by the deep spiritual meaning of this impressive gathering surely say that it was worth it all; that those silent martyrs lying forever enshrined upon this field, did not die in vain, that you who at the front bore the storm and stress of that great conflict, and those who waited in trembling anxiety at home and bore the woe and agony of suspense and uncertainty, did not suffer in vain? Can we not truly say that until this people had withstood some such stress as this, there was no assurance that this great experiment of the ability of men to govern themselves was surely successful? Shrink from the facts as we may, do they not prove their case? Would we within, or those who stood doubting, without, ever have felt the assurance which is now felt? Do we not know that those who the God of Nations hathened together, no man can ever sunder?"

"Apart from the deep significance which your meeting has, and from the important page which it will fill in history, is it not good for you as individuals to be here today? Your last memories of this field will overlay the earlier ones. It will no longer picture itself in your memories as a field of carnage and suffering and woe, but a field of smiling faces and happy hearts going forth to the nation and it will rejoice with you, and the whole world will realize that not only has government of the people, by the people, and for the people not perished from the earth, but that it will not ever perish."

"The French government is determined to suppress sharply all incitement to the soldiers of the active army to protest against the introduction of the rule of three years' service with the colors by acts of insubordination. Twelve secretaries and treasurers of syndicalist labor organizations were arrested today on warrants issued by Judge Drouot of the Paris criminal court. The accusation was of inciting soldiers to disobedience and to desertion from the army."

Principal Commercial College

HON. J. JACOB ROGERS, M. C.

Graduating Exercises Held Last Night—Addresses by Geo. M. Harrigan and Cong. Rogers

The graduation exercises of the Lowell Commercial college were held last evening in Associate hall and were attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young people who had completed their course. It was also the 54th anniversary of the school. Hon. John Jacob Rogers and George M. Harrigan were the speakers of the evening and His Honor Mayor James E. O'Donnell presented the diplomas.

Following is the program of the evening:

March, "Progressive,"Cushman Orchestra.

Address of Welcome.

George M. Harrigan, president Lowell Board of Trade.

Intermezzo, "Vanity,"Mathews Orchestra.

Address to Graduates.

Hon. John Jacob Rogers, M. C.

Selection, "Lion's Chase,"Knollig Orchestra.

Presentation of class gift.

John E. Black.

Waltz, "Firefly,"Frini Orchestra.

Presentation of diplomas.

Mayor James E. O'Donnell.

Calon, "At Nod,"Pick Orchestra.

In his address, Mr. Harrigan complimented the Lowell Commercial college on the good work which it has accomplished during the past 54 years and said that the students had rendered him valuable services on occasions when he had telephoned to the college to send someone. He congratulated the graduates on completing their course.

Mr. Harrigan introduced Congressman John Jacob Rogers, whose address was highly interesting and beneficial. He dwelt on the need of moderation in business that one may not become greedy and seek gain at the expense of others and he referred to the class differences, giving as examples the strikes at Lawrence and New Jersey. He pointed out the great value of the education afforded by the Lowell Commercial college for a successful and satisfying business career, instilling certain admirable characteristics into the work and forming the character of the student.

He gave a brief history of sten-

ography to the graduates and then emphasized the high confidence which is placed in a stenographer by an employer, dictating letters and matters of privacy, and the necessity of stenographers respecting this confidence placed in them.

In conclusion Mr. Rogers said: "I have been often struck," he said, "in talking with some doctors, with the fact that they were ready to discuss their patients and their maladies. I have sometimes talked with lawyers who have been willing to discuss their clients' cases. I have sometimes talked with bankers and brokers who were prepared to relate certain confidential information about some of their clients. Of course, I am simply speaking of a few of each class. The average man does not like to have his affairs talked about. If he comes to a person for advice, or has confidential relations with anyone, he does not care to have his affairs talked about. Now, you young people just starting out will occupy many of you—highly confidential positions. There is no position, I will venture to say, more confidential than that which the stenographer bears to his employer. You are the companion of your employer; you necessarily know the innermost affairs of his business; and it is for you to decide whether you will be a servant to him, or a pleasant and interesting conversationalist, along the line of your business, and perhaps give away things which he would especially desire to be kept secret. The main maxim, it seems to me, that you have got to think of before anything else, is to keep your mouth shut. With that benediction, I will wish you all a most joyous life in business and out of business, as long as you all shall live."

In presenting the diplomas, His Honor Mayor O'Donnell spoke a few brief words of congratulation and encouragement and commended the school and faculty upon their excellent methods of training the young men and women for business.

Following the exercises, the hall was cleared of the seats and dance was enjoyed. Following is the list of graduates: Grace D. Balmworth, No. Billerica; Gladys L. Bishop, Lisbon, N. H.; Charles E. Bourk, Lowell; Marion E. Bradley, Springfield, Vt.; An-

WALSH FOR GOVERNOR

Plans for Campaign Are Made at Pittsfield

BOSTON, July 1.—Plans for carrying through the campaign of David I. Walsh for governor were framed yesterday afternoon at a conference held as a result of the Pittsfield meeting and the reinsurance of Governor Foss to Major Walsh, brother of Lieutenant-Governor Walsh, that he did not intend to become a candidate.

The statement is not different, however, from other statements made by the governor, even when doing things that were taken to indicate that he desired to run for governor again.

At the Pittsfield meeting, the town and city chairmen of the five western counties met and went on record for Mr. Walsh for governor.

Mayor Fitzgerald has put it squarely up to the governor that it is his duty to retire.

INVESTIGATE LOBBIES

Senate Will Reopen Inquiry Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Investigation of lobbyists and lobbies by the senate will reopen tomorrow with a number of prominent Wall street men as witnesses. Chairman Overman of the special committee decided late yesterday, after a talk with President

Parents, Read this Letter!

I have a letter from a prominent Maine clergyman in regard to a sickness of one of his children from which I quote as follows: "Our two-year-old baby was very sick at two different times and we came near losing her. We had the best doctors, but they did not know what the trouble was. In the first sickness she had high fever for several days, and the doctor said it acted like scarlet fever, but as there were no other cases he did not think it could be. Afterwards the broke out in a rash all over her body. The last sickness was similar and the doctor was puzzled. She was very nervous and we feared we would lose her. Your Dr. True's Elixir was passed several and after two days' use the rashes in length, and is now well and strong and sleeps at night without fretting, tossing and starting in a fright as she did formerly."

I will be glad to furnish this clergyman's name and address to anyone who cares to write to me.

N.B.—True's Elixir is the best known remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles. Purely vegetable, pleasant to take and entirely harmless. Expels stomach worms and pin worms. All dealers, 35c; 50c; $1.00.

Yours for better health,

Wilson and informal conferences with his committee assistants, to renew activity at once, instead of waiting until July 5 as he had planned.

The claims of Martin M. Mulhall of Baltimore that, as lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, he had for years maintained close relations with members of congress and financed their campaigns for reelection, have so intensified the feeling in congressional circles that the lobby committee has determined to proceed at once and to interrogate all persons connected with any of the recent lobby disclosures as rapidly as they can be heard.

APPROVE INCOME TAX

Democrats Strike Out Insurance Clause

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Democrats of the senate in caucus late last night approved the income tax section of the tariff bill as released by the majority members of the finance committee, voting, however, to strike out the amendment which would exempt mutual life insurance companies from the tax.

CARMEN IN DEADLOCK

Arbitration is Now Declared to be Necessary

BOSTON, July 1.—Arbitration is now declared to be necessary to bring about an adjustment of wages and working conditions satisfactory to the Boston Elevated and its employees.

Another conference was held yesterday between the committee representing the Street Car men's union and the Elevated officials relative to the wage increase and other requests made by the union two or three months ago.

It was declared, however, that a point has now been reached where arbitration must be resorted to, although the conferences which have been held for months will be continued until the method of arbitration is fixed upon.

SIR JOHN MURRAY SCOTT

Contest Over His Will to Go to Jury

LONDON, July 1.—Lady Sackville and her family today entered a general denial of the allegations made by the family of the late Sir John Murray Scott that they had induced Sir John to leave to them the bulk of his fortune of £500,000.

The testimony for the defense being concluded, Sir Edward Carson, counsel for the Sackvilles, addressed the jury. He first asked the judge to declare that no evidence had been brought forward to show the existence of a codicil to the will which Sir John Murray Scott was alleged to have made in 1910 or 1911 revoking the legacy to Lady Sackville or that there was any evidence of fraud or undue influence against the Sackvilles.

The judge, however, decided that the case must go to the jury.

HUERTA TO MEET AMERICANS

Provisional President of Mexico Accepts Invitation to Attend July 4th Festivities

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—Although Provisional President Huerta has accepted the invitation sent to him to meet the American residents of Mexico City during their festivities on the Fourth of July, the colony in Mexico City will celebrate the day this year without the presence of the American ambassador.

Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson has decided to go to Vera Cruz to participate in the festivities on board the vessels of the United States navy there. He will thus avoid the embarrassing question of what might be construed as official contact between the president of the Mexican republic and the representatives of a nation which has not recognized his government.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

Demonstrated in Contracts Let Out by the Army for Feeding Officers and Men

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The increasing cost of living the country over is demonstrated in contracts let out by the army for feeding the officers and men of the revenue cutter service during the new fiscal year beginning today.

New York city, according to the contract, shows the greatest increase. It will cost $458 each day to feed each sailor as against $35 last year. Baltimore and Boston are the only cities showing slight decreases in a long list, the cost in Baltimore dropping from $41 to $401 and in Boston from $575 to $555.

OPEN SEASON ON MIGRATORY BIRDS

New Regulations of Interest to Hunters Issued by Federal Government

The eagerly-awaited regulations of the United States department of agriculture, bureau of biological survey, stating the seasons in which the shooting of migratory birds is allowed, announced under the recently enacted Weeks-McLean migratory bird law, have just been made public by the department. They are effective as of Oct. 1, 1913.

In view of the widespread interest in this matter, not only on the part of sportsmen but of lovers of wild life generally, the American Game Protective and Propagation association, which was active in the movement for the enactment of the Weeks-McLean law, has summarized the most important points involved in these regulations as follows:

Seasons Established

Generally speaking, the country is divided into two zones, northern and southern, the dividing line running wholly or in part north of latitude 36 degrees and the Ohio river.

The 24 states included in the northern zone comprise Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. The 22 states included in the southern zone are Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Nevada and Utah.

The shooting season fixed for these two zones varies according to the four classifications of migratory birds that have been made, as will be seen later. The zones thus established take the place of 24 separate districts now existing under the statutes of the several states.

Summary of New Regulations

By way of summarization the following statements may be made:

1. Exceptions have been made in both zones for numerous reasons, but in most cases the closed seasons take the average of the existing laws of the states in the particular zones in which they are located.

2. There has been more cutting down on the closing than the opening dates of the shooting seasons as they now exist.

3. In most cases three months of open shooting are allowed for water fowl and in some cases as much as three and one-half months.

4. Spring shooting is absolutely prohibited.

5. Shooting of migratory birds between sunrise and sunset is likewise prohibited.

6. In no case will there be less than 30 days when birds may be shot during the period of their greatest abundance.

When Shooting is Prohibited

Birds that may be shot are divided by the new regulations into four classes. These, and the open seasons allowed on them, follow:

Northern zone—Water fowl, Sept. 1, Dec. 15, Rail, Sept. 1-Dec. 1; Woodcock, Oct. 1-Dec. 1; Shore birds, Sept. 1-Dec. 15.

No shooting whatever is allowed of cranes, or the columbidæ—doves, pigeons, etc.

A closed season until September 1, 1915 is established for band-tailed pigeons, little brown, sandhill and whoping cranes; swans, curlew, all shore birds except black breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack snipe, wood duck, greater and lesser yellow legs.

Wood duck in addition are given a closed season to September 1, 1915 in the following states: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Insectivorous birds, including robins, larks, etc., are protected at all times in all states and similar protection is given the smaller shore birds and other species which have been greatly reduced in number.

Unlimited Shooting on Great Rivers

A novel and important feature is the prohibition of hunting on the great rivers of the country except during November and December. Prohibited territory as designated by the regulations in this instance is as follows:

1. Mississippi river from New Orleans to Minneapolis.

2. Ohio river from its mouth to Pittsburgh.

3. Missouri river between its mouth and Bismarck, North Dakota.

Under the provisions of the Weeks-McLean law 3 months are given from the time these regulations are made public until they are presented to the president for approval and are finally adopted. It is also provided that public hearings may be had if deemed proper and it is assumed that these very probably will be held.

History-Making Action

The regulations outlined above constitute beyond a doubt the most sweeping action ever taken in the country's history towards the protection of its wild life. They, of course, take absolute precedence of all existing statutes in the several states with which they come in conflict. That they will be of the greatest interest to the 250,000,000 or more of the country's population who are directly or indirectly concerned with the subject to which they pertain is certain. It is felt that on the whole the underlying principles are sound and well adapted to an urgent need. Wise discrimination for the most part seems to have been made in dealing with species that are relatively abundant and those that are not holding their own under existing regulations and there is evident intent of giving a square deal to all sections of the country.

A special committee of three from the bureau of biological survey drafted the regulations outlined above. Its members are T. S. Palmer, A. K. Fisher and W. W. Cooke. The department of agriculture has issued two pamphlets on the subject, one containing the regulations themselves and the second an explanation of them. These are numbered 92 and 93, respectively.

The regulations outlined above are an effective contribution to the summer, wide-spread in the northwestern states, to the effect that the Weeks-McLean law prohibits the shooting at any time of ducks and other wild fowl.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

Old Family From Maine Shows Remarkable Longevity—Visit of Great Great Grand Mother

Mrs. Lucy A. Ludwig, wife of the late Lemuel Ludwig, of Bridgeport, Conn., has been for the past four weeks the guest of her granddaughter, Mrs. Edwin Couillard of 29 Perkins street, this city. She has had a very pleasant stay in Lowell, during which time the venerable old lady visited the principal points of interest in this city. This was her first visit to the Spindle city and she was delighted with her experience. The visitor left yesterday noon for her summer home at Tenants Harbor, Me.

Mrs. Ludwig was 88 years of age last March and despite her advanced age she is enjoying the best of health. She is still able to read without the use of glasses, and she is deeply interested in newspapers, for she likes to know what is going on throughout the world. She is the head of five generations and likes to talk about her family.

Mrs. Ludwig is from the old Yankee stock, her parents being some of the first settlers in the state of Maine. At the age of fourteen she was married to Lemuel Ludwig, who was born in Waldo, Me., March 10, 1814. She was his second wife, the marriage being performed on Nov. 23, 1831. Mr. Ludwig was a tanner by trade, but shortly after his marriage he became captain of what was known as the 3rd. Fair-trader. He worked at the former trade for fifteen years and held many town offices. For a number of years he kept a grocery store at Tenants Harbor, and also served as clerk of the Third Baptist church of that place for a long time.

Mrs. Ludwig had nine children and several grandchildren, great grandchildren and great great grandchildren. The above photograph representing five generations was taken nine years ago and the parties represented are as follows: Mrs. Lucy A. Ludwig, her daughter, Mrs. Louisa Welch, who was born Nov. 12, 1841, and now living in Bridgeport, Conn., granddaughter, Mrs. Laura Couillard of Lowell, who was born March 17, 1870 and married at the age of 18; the latter's daughter, Mrs. C. H. Call of Charlestown, who was born 21 years ago, and who was married at the age of 18; and the latter's son, Charles Wesley Call, who will be ten years of age Nov. 1.

Mrs. Ludwig is the mother of nine children; two were born to Mrs. Welch; Mrs. Couillard had one, her daughter, Mrs. Call is also the mother of one child. Some time this summer the members of the five generations will meet at the family's summer home in Tenants Harbor, Me., and there tender a reception to the venerable head of this remarkable family.

WILD WEST SHOW COMING

101 Ranch Will be Here on Thursday

Out-of-town people are cautioned not to miss the picturesque free street pageant with which the 101 Ranch Wild West show will inaugurate its engagement in Lowell next Thursday, July 3. Although some of the so-called wild west exhibitions have, in recent years, eliminated the parade under the plea that it no longer appealed to the public, the management of the 101 Ranch Wild West evidences its faith in the appreciation of the people by announcing the organization of the most typically picturesque wild west parade ever offered as a free street pageant. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, it is announced, have been expended in great floats and tableaux, representing historic events in the life of the great west; magnificent herds; hand chariots, and special features. Scores of blanket Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, Mexicans, old scouts and cowboys are utilized in the line and the west-colored costume is said to be a beautiful kaleidoscope. One of the most famous among the old time stage coaches is driven by a relic of the old overland days; there is a real, fine prairie schooner, drawn by oxen, just as in the pioneer days, and other characteristic features bring the history of the making of the west into the more colorful but not more progressive present. Ten kinds of music, including a cowboy band, will enliven the line of march, which will cover the principal downtown streets. The parade starts about 10:30.

Following the procession, at 2 o'clock, there will be a notable performance in the big arena. Jos. C. Miller, the famous Oklahoma ranchman, will lead the great company of cowboys and people who will give exhibitions of riding, roping and shooting. All the other stunts peculiar to a wild west show will be given.

HENRI ROCHEFORT DEAD

Was Prominent Figure in French Parties

AIN LES BAINES, France, July 1.—Henri Rochefort, for a long series of years one of the most prominent figures in French political life, died here today from a complication of maladies at the age of 52. The real name of Henri Rochefort was the Marquis Victor de Rochefort-Lucy, and he was the son of Marquis Claude Louis de Rochefort-Lucy, who was a successful author of light plays. Henri Rochefort was a Parisian of the Parisians, as he was born in the French capital and passed the greater part of his life there. He took part in the defense against the Prussians in 1870-71 as a member of the government of the national defense and at other times worked as a municipal official, as a deputy, as a journalist and as a playwright.

"SET UP BY A BARE"

Sally White Thinks the Man in Question Was a "Distant Husband" of Hers.

This one may be covered with lichen, or it may be too good to be true, but Mayor A. F. Hooper of Hobart, Okla., insists that he received it the other day and that it is genuine: Mayor of Hobart, Okla. Kind and respected Sir: I see in a paper that a man named John Spies was attacked and set up by a bare whose claws he was trying to get when the shoe band came up and stopt him by eating him up in the mountains near your town. What I want to know is did it kill him or was he on the parlie at up and is he from this place and all about the bare. I don't know but what he is a distant husband of mine. My first husband was by that name and I suppose he was killed in the war, but the name of the man the bare set him after all, and I ought to know if he was killed by the bare or in the war for I have been married twice since then and have thought to be divorced papers got out by me or him if he had not eat him all up. If it is him you will know it by him havin' six toes on the left foot. He also sings base and has a spread eagle tattoo on his right arm which you will know him by if he has aint at up these signs of bare. If it is not him I am sorry, but I am glad to see Joe White cause he never liked Joe. Maybe you better let on as if I am dead but find out all you kin without him knowing anything about what it is for that is if the bare aint at him all up.

Respectfully, Sally White.

P. S.—Was the bare killed also was he married again and did he leave any property with me, my claims to—Chicago Record-Herald.

The day will be Wednesday, Wednesday, July 2, the Red Letter days start in the stores, which mean that upon Wednesday of each week all merchants are authorized to issue 10 votes for 10 cents instead of the regulation one vote with a 10 cent purchase, this to apply to cash sales as well as the payment of accounts.

As a Shampoo

THE scalp gives off a certain amount of oil to which the dirt clings. Carbonol when used as a shampoo (a teaspoonful to a basin of water) dissolves this oil without any injury to the scalp or hair, loosens the dirt and makes possible a thorough and satisfactory cleaning.

The hair instead of being unruly after the shampoo will comb easily and smoothly and be improved in appearance.

Carbonol is the easiest kind of shampoo to use because you simply put a dash of it into the water and then wash with it. Carbonol has a thousand other personal and household uses. It is a disinfectant and as such will kill germs anywhere. When mixed with the water used in housecleaning, it dissolves grease and makes all sorts of cleaning operations easier and more effective. You can buy it from your druggist in 10, 25 and 50 cent bottles. Free sample will be sent on request.

Live Bits of Sport

Ray Brown has quit the ring, according to his own statements and will never draw on a glove again. He was married Saturday in Indianapolis and the bride made a stipulation that her husband must stop boxing and settling his blood. Brown has money and will settle down to business.

Pat Cawley, the former shortstop and captain of the East Holy Cross team, is a finished performer in his position although he did not have a very good day yesterday. He is a born ball player and will make a dandy infielder when he has acquired a trifle more experience.

The name at Lawrence yesterday furnished some very pretty baseball plays. Miller's steal of home in the last inning was the stellar performance, of course, but there were other plays which were noteworthy. Lee stabbed a hot liner at the third station which very nearly tore his arm off. The force of the ball spun the stocky little player half around, but he hung on to it. Pete Clemens made a fine catch in the tenth when he dove in front of a hard hit liner to center field. The ball had over gotten away from him it would have gone for a home run. Mages in left and DeGroot in right also grabbed some difficult flies that looked like hits. Halstead at first base played his game, taking a throw no matter where the ball was thrown. Halstead makes putouts in most every game in which he participates that, although they do not appear difficult on account of the easy way in which he handles himself, would never be made by any other first sacker in this league. His leap and stab of DeGroot's high throw in the eleventh inning yesterday for a close putout was nothing short of marvelous.

A large delegation of local lovers of the merry art will take in the bout tonight between our own Jimmie Gardner and Frank Klaus. It is a certainty that this bout will be the cream of the season's shows for much of the crowd on the outcome of this twelve round contest. Go to it, Jimmie, and pass on your famous face massage with that left hand!

Larry Burns, the Lawrence boxer, has been training faithfully at Steve Kennedy's camp on the Merrimack and he looks to start a favorite over Tommy McFarland. McFarland is a very heavy athlete, however, and also packs a punch. The two seem to be as evenly matched as it is possible to get two boys. They will both weigh in when Kennedy and Ryan tip the beam at 12 o'clock the morning of the fourth.

Hugh Duffy tried unsuccessfully to sign up two youngsters last Sunday. The Portland team was playing the Berkeley in a team on that day and Duffy liked the looks of the catcher and left fielder. Pazzoli was the catcher. He is at present attending college. Duffy Gross and does not want to leave college. The other boy, Dickenson, is a student at Dean academy, and he likewise wants to continue in college. Both boys, Duffy says, will make good ball players.

Joe Ferrin seems to be going along well with the Brockton club. Joe is a good ball player, but has been hitting them at the holders so far this season. Since being picked up by Brockton, however, he has been banging the ball hard. He got a three batter and a single yesterday out of three times up.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Mt. Groves won a slugging match from the well known Lowell Americans Saturday, the score being 22-2. The free hitting of Mullin, Mason, and Cryan of the victors, and the misplaced confidence of the defeated team in its star twirlers were the game's features. Next Saturday the Mt. Groves will play the Exeter A. C. on the Woodward avenue grounds.

The Eagles will challenge any 19 year old team, preferably the Cubs, Wild Ducks, Riverdicks, Tigers, Glendales or Royals. We claim the championship of the city. Open date July 12. Send all challenges through this paper.

CAUSE OF TITANIC WRECK

Commander of Patrol Boat Blames Look-out

BOSTON, July 1.—After making exhaustive tests near the spot where the Titanic crashed into a mammoth iceberg and foundered one year ago, Captain Charles B. Johnston, commander of the United States derelict destroyer Seneca, declares that had the lookout and watch officers of the big-passenger steamer been wide-awake and alert on the night of the catastrophe, the course of the steamer could have been diverted and no accident would have happened.

Wreck Available

In an interview with a reporter on board the Seneca, which arrived in Boston harbor yesterday, Captain Johnston said that his tests proved conclusively that the sinking of the Titanic could have been avoided. This is the first practical authoritative word on the subject since no tests with icebergs under water and under the same conditions have ever before been made.

"We made special observation of icebergs which we encountered during our patrol the last 10 weeks," Captain Johnston said, "and the conditions of these night tests were exactly the same as the officers of the Titanic said prevailed on the night that the steamer went to the bottom."

The Public Protest

AGAINST POOL ROOMS AS A RULE

The mere announcement of the opening of a pool room brings forth a strenuous protest from neighboring property owners, residents and the parents of boys and young men.

Such, however, was not the case when Henry Carr decided to open his pool room in Gorham street.

Having known him as a boy and young man, the people in the South End knew that the business would be conducted along proper lines and that everything within the place would be "RIGHT."

That their opinion was quite right is shown by the ever-increasing business of his place and the success it has had since the first "set-up."

Boys who enter Carr's must in every instance have the consent, written, not oral, of their parents or guardians, countersigned by a police inspector. This formality is gone through because it is the law. Minors are never admitted unless the owner is so authorized.

LOWELL BEATS LEAGUE LEADER

Lawrence Loses to Locals in 1 Innings—Miller Stole Home in Final Session

Lowell won a 12-inning game from Lawrence yesterday in the down river city, battling in two runs in the twelfth after stinging the score up in the eighth in a batting rally which netted three runs. The final score, 9 to 7, does not show the relative qualities of the two teams as displayed yesterday for Lowell got 17 hits to Lawrence's 11. The game was one of the most exciting contests which has been seen in Lawrence this year.

Martin, the star twirler of the league, was in the points for Lawrence and was hit freely throughout the game. He was very lucky in holding Lowell down so that extra innings were needed for Lowell's three misplays all counted in the run column. Swornstedt started the game for Manager Gray but his delivery was too easy for Pieper's men and he was derelicted in the fourth and Zieser, sent in Zieser pitched a nice game with the exception of the sixth inning when Lawrence scored two runs. Only one of these was earned, however, as Pieper's overthrow to first allowed one run to score.

Daly, Miller, Halstead and DeGroot played great ball for Lowell. In fact the entire team played major league ball during the last six innings of the game. Miller pulled off a great play in the twelfth. With one out, himself on third and Daly on second, Miller started for home with Martin's windup. Although his sudden start hurried Martin so that he heaved the ball over Breyemaler's head it is almost certain that Miller would have reached the plate in safety even if the throw had been low. When Phoenix booted Zieser's fast grounder Daly brought home the last run of the game. Lawrence did not threaten to score in her half.

KENNEDY AND JOE EGAN

Clash July 4th—Burns to Meet McFarland

Larry Burns of Lawrence and Tommy McFarland of Boston will furnish an eight-round semi-final for the main bout of the Triangle A. A. at Spaulding Park on the Fourth. Burns is the main attraction of the Fourth. Both of these boys are fast and each carries the punch so that the curtain raiser of Steve Kennedy and Joe Egan should prove very near as good as the main event. Burns is the boy who shaded Finney Boyl in his last winter in one of the best semi-finals that was put on during the season. Burns has improved greatly since that time and now feels confident that he can box in the same class as Tommy McFarland. McFarland has fought several main bouts during the last winter and is better than the boys who usually appear in the semi-finals.

Both semi-final boys as well as Steve Kennedy and Joe Egan will be in town the night before the Fourth. The articles of agreement stipulating that they appear or lose their forfeit money. Kennedy will be furnished quarters at the Richardson while Egan and his party will occupy a suite at the Waverly. Any skeptics who have the least doubt as to the appearance of either or both boxers can readily verify the truth of the club's announcement by calling at these two hotels the night preceding the Fourth.
